Fever Dangers

Three more cases of rabbit fever were reported Wednesday in Pick-away county.

Samuel Kendrick, Monroe township, member of the county school board, and Mrs. Kendrick, are seriously ill of the disease. The third case is that of Mrs. Charles Pitt, Williamsport, who is in University hospital, Columbus. Mrs.
Pitt's condition is reported to be serious.

The three cases reported Wednesday make a total of four in Circleville and Pickaway county so far this season. Mrs. Elizabeth Parlier, 730 S. Scott street, has been ill of the disease.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, said another possible case was reported near Commercial Point. The commissioner said he was told that the man had not visited a doctor, but neighbors believed he had the disease.

The disease is contracted by cleaning or handling diseased rabbits.

Fever Case Quarantined

Carol Lee Francis, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Francis, Commercial Point, is ill of scarlet fever. The home was quarantined Tuesday. There are two cases of scarlet fever now under quarantine in the county, both in Scioto township. Mr. Francis is superintendent of the Scioto township school.

The health commissioner spoke Tuesday afternoon at the Scioto township school to teachers, bus drivers and pupils, warning them of the mild cases of the disease.
He explained that a mild case of the illness may cause it to spread to others who will have serious cases.

The score on chicken pox cases among pupils of Franklin street school Wednesday was 35. All cases except one are in the first three grades. One case was reported in the sixth grade.

NAZI TROOPERS OPEN CAMPAIGN ON 'WHITE JEW'

BERLIN, Dec. 14—(UP)—The publication Das Schwarze Korps, organ of the picked "SS" Nazi storm troops, opened a drive today against elements which it called "white Jews" and defined as "Aryans with the same lust for profits, the same cunning, the same unscrupulousness in choice of his means as black Jews."

Explaining its drive, the publication said:

"We have not gone through years of struggle and endured pressure and war agitation to enable these evil vultures to sit down at the table which Jews have just been forced to vacate."

This article coincided with a drive in Fascist Italy against bourgeois elements as part of which every effort was made to make middle class persons appear as the opposite of everything for which Fascism stands. Premier Benito Mussolini's newspaper Popolo d'Italia of Milan said, for instance: "To let the bourgeois live is equivalent to letting the proletariat survive."

The "SS" organ's article coincided also with an official Nazi broadcast which assured German housewives that there was no food shortage. It was specified that plenty of cabbage and turnips were available.

STRONG BOX, TAKEN FROM COLUMBUS FIRM, LOCATED

Another small safe, believed stolen from a Columbus business establishment, was found Tuesday in Harrison township, near Duvall, where it had been tossed out along a road.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said he was notified about the safe by Harry Baum, resident of the community. It had been pried open.
The Columbus police department was notified about the safe. No investigation was made by county officers.

The safe is the third found in the northern section of the county in recent months. All were stolen from Columbus.

Davey Saves Ohio Youth From Death

Governor Says Condemned Boy Must Serve Life
With Three Pals

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—
Governor Martin L. Davey today commuted the death sentence of George Wells, 21, Akron holdup slayer, to life imprisonment. Wells was to have died tonight in the electric chair.

Governor Davey said that he granted the commutation to Wells in the interest of "equal justice" because three other youths convicted of the same murder had been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Last week, the governor refused mercy to Anna Marie Hahn, Cincinnati poison killer, and she died in the chair.

Wells was convicted of killing William F. Pantazis, an Akron restaurant owner. Those given life imprisonment were Roger Kegg, George Murphy and Grunt
Scott.

Governor Davey's statement today read:

"Four young men were involved in this holdup murder. Three were given life sentences and Wells was condemned to die. According to the record there were two triggemen, the other of whom was given a life sentence. All four were potential murderers because all carried guns and were ready to use them if the occasion required.
"It seems a little unfair that only one of the four should go to the electric chair when two were equally guilty and all four were of equal potential guilt.
"I cannot overlook the fact that the mother of George Wells is a fine type of American motherhood whose wayward son has no previous crime record prior to the three weeks preceding the murder."

"Nothing in this statement should be construed as condoning in the slightest degree the cold-blooded murder that was committed because there is no mitigating circumstance except that of dealing equal justice to four boys who chose a career of crime in preference to the honorable ways of life."

JAP CHIEF ASKS CHINA TO CONFER ON END OF WAR

SHANGHAI, Dec. 14—(UP)— Chinese political sources said today that Japan's most famous military figure, Gen. Kenji Doi-hara, was approaching Chinese leaders with a plan for settlement of the war in China.

Doihara, a mysterious militar-ist with an almost legendary reputation as an undercover agent, brought instructions for settlement, the Chinese asserted, but it was highly uncertain whether the Kuomintang (national government party) leaders would be interested.

Recently Chinese have claimed their troops were throwing the Japanese back in the southern areas and that they expected to recapture Canton with an army now swinging into action in South China.

Doihara has been attempting to establish contact with Kuomintang leaders in Shanghai and Hongkong or to reach them through their agents and he has been successful in several instances, the reports said.

YOUTHS HURT AS CAR HITS TRAIN

James White And Harold Binkley Treated In Lancaster

Two Circleville youths escaped with minor injuries at 10 p. m.
Tuesday when the automobile they were driving struck a moving Pennsylvania railroad freight train at Belmont crossing, between Lancaster and Amanda.

They were James White, 22, 816 Maplewood avenue, driver of the Ford belonging to Willis Green, 902 S. Court street, and Harold Binkley, 21, 521 E. Mound street.

White and Binkley were taken to Lancaster hospital by trainmen, who took them aboard the eastbound freight. They received treatment, White for an injured knee and Binkley for head cuts.
Both were discharged later. The youths were driving east on Route 22.

The damaged automobile was taken to an Amanda garage.
Fairfield county authorities said the headlights of the freight train might have confused the autoists.
White is a substitute driver for Green, a rural newspaper carrier.

FIREMEN TO PLACE FOOD IN BOXES FOR CHRISTMAS

Food will be added to the boxes of toys to be distributed by Cir-

Christmas.

The Grand Theatre, in coopera-tain." Those contributing will see "Lawless Valley," and "Exposed."

Fire Chief Palmer Wise said the food will be placed in boxes with the toys and distributed to needy families. The chief announced

there would be "about enough to

BIGHTLER ROAD CHIEF

Army Man To Be Aided By Hal G. Sours, Akron, In New Cabinet

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—
Governor-elect John W. Bricker made two more cabinet selections today, announcing appointment of John T. Brown, Champaign county master farmer, as director of agriculture and of Lieut. Col. Robert S. Bightler, Columbus, as highway director.

Brown will be the first master farmer ever to hold the post of state agriculture director. He received the badge signifying the degree in the first class of master farmers recognized in Ohio in 1926.

He served in the state legislature from 1921 to 1929 during which period he was the author of the gasoline tax law. In 1923 he was elected lieutenant governor and presided over the state senate during the Cooper administration.

Headed Bricker Chief

He was active in the Bricker cause during the campaign and was the head of the Bricker-for-governor clubs throughout the state. For the last 20 years he has engaged in frequent Ohio State University extension lecture work at Farmers' Institutes. His present occupation is farm management.

Colonel Bightler's principal aide in the highway department will be Hal G. Sours, of Akron, whom Bricker named as assistant director. All three appointments will take effect following the inauguration January 9. The directorships carry salaries of $6,500 annually.

Colonel Bightler, 45, is head of a Columbus contracting firm and formerly was a division engineer for the highway department for the Cincinnati-Dayton district. He went with the department in 1921 under the Davis administration and rose to the place of chief engineer and assistant director before resigning in 1930.

Appointee to Wed

His office reluctantly admitted to newspapermen today that Colonel Bightler will be married just a week before he takes office. The bride's name was not disclosed.
The new director has two children
by a former marriage.

He has had considerable military experience, having served on the Mexican border in 1916 and in

PRIME MINISTER RAPS GERMAN IN HEATED TALK

Fuehrer's Aides Refuse To Attend Event Addressed
By Chamberlain

ENGLISH PAPERS IRATE

Neville's Listeners Cheer Pointed Remarks About Hitler's Press

LONDON, Dec. 14—(UP)—A strong police guard was placed over the German embassy today as British-German relations took a sharp turn for the worse because Nazis boycotted a banquet at which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was the speaker.

Three policemen patrolled before the embassy. Others watched discreetly from nearby vantage points to guard against any hostile demonstrations by people who had seen the screaming headlines with which newspapers reported what they interpreted as an affront to the British government.

It was indicated that the banquet incident was but a chance manifestation of a new diplomatic situation in which Great Britain and France might again find themselves aligned against the totalitarian powers, Germany and Italy.

Not only German newspapermen
but Dr. Herbert Von Dirksen, German ambassador, and Gottfried
Aschman, special envoy of Adolf Hitler, boycotted the banquet because Chamberlain, in his speech, criticized the "vituperation" of German newspapers against Earl Rabwin, "most respected of our statesmen," and other British public men.

Hitler Gets Report

There was reason to believe that a special report of Chamberlain's speech, taken by shorthand reporters at the German embassy by radio, had been forwarded to Hitler today. The speech as broadcast was checked for minor departures which the prime minister made from the text — the text which, distributed in confidence and in advance to newspaper correspondents, caused the boycott.

Ostensibly, it was the criticism of German newspapers alone which impelled the Germans to remain away from the banquet, given by the Foreign press association.

But there were reports that the Nazi government was equally angry by a reference which Chamberlain made to the transitory nature of such regimes as that of the Nazis. Hitler and his men have made a point of impressing on Germans that Nazism will never die and that its buildings are constructed so as to live for thousands of years.

Usually well informed sources reported that Hitler himself ordered the boycott, after having been advised of what Chamberlain intended saying.

Under the unhappy augury of the banquet boycott, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German Reichsbank and world authority on finance, arrived today to negotiate with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and to discuss financial matters of urgent importance.

Schacht intended to talk over the possibility of an international agreement for emigration of German Jews under a plan that would permit Jews to take a fragment of their possessions with them and

Township Official Makes Clerk's Job Racket; $35,000 Embezzlement Charged

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—
How a township clerk-treasurer, whose salary was $20.53 a month, almost bankrupted the township by embezzling $35,000 over a period of nearly five years by means of forged, fraudulent warrants, was told graphically today in a report filed with State Auditor Joseph T.
Ferguson by State Examiner H. H.
Hastings.

The clerk-treasurer was Ralph Purdy, of Montpelier, who was received Dec. 10 at Ohio penitentiary under sentence to serve from three to six years. He was sentenced on a plea of guilty to 333 indictments counts charging embezzlement and 332 counts charging forgery.

Purdy was clerk-treasurer of Superior township, Williams county.
He also was clerk of the village of Montpelier and the Superior township rural school district. Examiner Hastings discovered that

Purdy was also a frequent visitor at several alleged gambling places in Toledo.

It was at these two places that Purdy, according to the examiner's report, cashed 332 forged township warrants, totaling $31,000.

Warrants Cash

"There is no doubt that if Purdy had not had accomplices in the Toledo gambling clubs, his nefarious and dastardly scheme could not have gained such gigantic proportions," the examiner asserted, pointing out that the fraudulent warrants were cashed there without requiring Purdy's own endorsement.

The former clerk-treasurer, the report added, forged township warrants and "issued them to suit his own convenience and pleasure," issuing them in the approximate names of persons to whom legiti-mate township warrants were paid.

The forgeries commenced, the examiner found on July 23, 1934.
By years they totaled as follows:
1934, $1,551.30; 1935, $8,165.70;
1936, $5,235.85; 1937, $12,411; and 1938 (up to Oct. 21, when the audit commenced), $3,929.65.

Purdy not only forged warrants for his own personal benefit, but employed two women as assistant clerks, without authorization by the trustees, and issued fraudulent warrants for their salaries, totaling $1,077.

The examiner's report stated that these assistants were apparently employed "in order that he (Purdy) could be absent from the office more time to spend his ill-gotten gains."

Purdy also forged the signatures of trustees to warrants for a number of personal purchases, including a $120 radio and amplifier for his automobile and $550 for a speed boat.

Army Man To Be Aided By Hal G. Sours, Akron, In New Cabinet

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—Governor-elect John W. Bricker made two more cabinet selections today, announcing appointment of John T. Brown, Champaign county master farmer, as director of agriculture and of Lieut. Col. Robert S. Beightler, Columbus, as highway director.

Brown will be the first master farmer ever to hold the post of state agriculture director. He received the badge signifying the degree in the first class of master farmers recognized in Ohio in 1926.

PRIME MINISTER RAPS GERMANS IN HEATED TALK

Neville's Listeners Cheer Pointed Remarks About Hitler's Press

LONDON, Dec. 14—(UP)—A strong police guard was placed over the German embassy today as British-German relations took a sharp turn for the worse because Nazis boycotted a banquet at which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was the speaker.

Three policemen patrolled before the embassy. Others watched discreetly from nearby vantage points to guard against any hostile demonstrations by people who had seen the screaming headlines with which newspapers reported what they interpreted as an affront to the British government.

It was indicated that the banquet incident was but a chance manifestation of a new diplomatic situation in which Great Britain and France might again find themselves aligned against the totalitarian powers, Germany and Italy.

Not only German newspapermen but Dr. Herbert Von Dirksen, German ambassador, and Gottfried Aschman, special envoy of Adolf Hitler, boycotted the banquet because Chamberlain, in his speech, criticized the "vituperation" of German newspapers against Earl Baldwin, "most respected of our statesmen," and other British public men.

Hitler Gets Report

There was reason to believe that a special report of Chamberlain's speech, taken by shorthand reporters at the German embassy by radio, had been forwarded to Hitler today. The speech as broadcast was checked for minor departures which the prime minister made from the text — the text which, distributed in confidence and in advance to newspaper correspondents, caused the boycott.

Ostensibly, it was the criticism of German newspapers alone which impelled the Germans to remain away from the banquet, given by the Foreign press association.

But there were reports that the Nazi government was equally annoyed by a reference which Chamberlain made to the transitory nature of such regimes as that of the Nazis. Hitler and his men have made a point of impressing on Germans that Nazism will never die and that its buildings are constructed so as to live for thousands of years.

Usually well informed sources reported that Hitler himself ordered the boycott, after having been advised of what Chamberlain intended saying.

Under the unhappy augury of the banquet boycott, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German Reichsbank and world authority on finance, arrived today to negotiate with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and to discuss financial matters of urgent importance.

Schacht intended to talk over the possibility of an international agreement for emigration of German Jews under a plan that would permit Jews to take a fragment of their possessions with them and

Health Commissioner Talks To Scioto School On Fever Dangers

Three more cases of rabbit fever were reported Wednesday in Pickaway county.

Samuel Kendrick, Monroe township, member of the county school board, and Mrs. Kendrick, are seriously ill of the disease. The third case is that of Mrs. Charles Pitt, Williamsport, who is in University hospital, Columbus. Mrs. Pitt's condition is reported to be serious.

The three cases reported Wednesday make a total of four in Circleville and Pickaway county so far this season. Mrs. Elizabeth Parker, 730 S. Scioto street, has been ill of the disease.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner, said another possible case was reported near Commercial Point. The commissioner said he was told that the man had not visited a doctor, but neighbors believed he had the disease.

The disease is contracted by cleaning or handling diseased rabbits.

Fever Case Quarantined

Carol Lee Francis, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Francis, Commercial Point, is ill of scarlet fever. The home was quarantined Tuesday. There are two cases of scarlet fever now under quarantine in the county, both in Scioto township. Mr. Francis is superintendent of the Scioto township school.

The health commissioner spoke Tuesday afternoon at the Scioto township school to teachers, bus drivers and pupils, warning them of the mild cases of the disease. He explained that a mild case of the illness may cause it to spread to others who will have serious cases.

The score on chicken pox cases among pupils of Franklin street school Wednesday was 35. All cases except one are in the first three grades. One case was reported in the sixth grade.

NAZI TROOPERS OPEN CAMPAIGN ON 'WHITE JEW'

BERLIN, Dec. 14—(UP)—The publication Das Schwarze Korps, organ of the picked "SS" Nazi storm troops, opened a drive today against elements which it called "white Jews" and defined as "Aryans with the same lust for profits, the same cunning, the same unscrupulousness in choice of his means as black Jews."

Explaining its drive, the publication said: "We have not gone through years of struggle and endured pressure and war agitation to enable these evil vultures to sit down at the table which Jews have just been forced to vacate."

This article coincided with a drive in Fascist Italy against bourgeois elements as part of which every effort was made to make middle class persons appear as the opposite of everything for which Fascism stands. Premier Benito Mussolini's newspaper Popolo D'Italia of Milan said, for instance: "To let the bourgeois live is equivalent to letting the proletariat survive."

The "SS" organ's article coincided also with an official Nazi broadcast which assured German housewives that there was no food shortage. It was specified that plenty of cabbage and turnips were available.

The safe is the third found in the northern section of the county in recent months. All were stolen from Columbus.

Davey Saves Ohio Youth From Death

Governor Says Condemned Boy Must Serve Life With Three Pals

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—Governor Martin L. Davey today commuted the death sentence of George Wells, 21, Akron holdup slayer, to life imprisonment. Wells was to have died tonight in the electric chair.

Governor Davey said that he granted the commutation to Wells in the interest of "equal justice" because three other youths convicted of the same murder had been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Last week, the governor refused mercy to Anna Marie Hahn, Cincinnati poison killer, and she died in the chair.

Wells was convicted of killing William F. Pantazis, an Akron restaurant owner. Those given life imprisonment were Roger Kegg, George Murphy and Grant Scott.

Governor Davey's statement today read:

"Four young men were involved in this holdup murder. Three were given life sentences and Wells was condemned to die. According to the record there were two trigger-men, the other of whom was given a life sentence. All four were potential murderers because all carried guns and were ready to use them if the occasion required."

"It seems a little unfair that only one of the four should go to the electric chair when two were equally guilty and all four were of equal potential guilt."

"I cannot overlook the fact that the mother of George Wells is a fine type of American motherhood whose wayward son has no previous crime record prior to the three weeks preceding the murder."

"Nothing in this statement should be construed as condoning in the slightest degree the cold-blooded murder that was committed because there is no mitigating circumstance except that of dealing equal justice to four boys who chose a career of crime in preference to the honorable ways of life."

JAP CHIEF ASKS CHINA TO CONFER ON END OF WAR

SHANGHAI, Dec. 14—(UP)—Chinese political sources said today that Japan's most famous military figure, Gen. Kenji Doihara, was approaching Chinese leaders with a plan for settlement of the war in China.

Doihara, a mysterious military figure with an almost legendary reputation as an undercover agent, brought instructions for settlement, the Chinese asserted, but it was highly uncertain whether the Kuomintang (national government party) leaders would be interested.

Recently Chinese have claimed their troops were throwing the Japanese back in the southern areas and that they expected to recapture Canton with an army now swinging into action in South China.

Doihara has been attempting to establish contact with Kuomintang leaders in Shanghai and Hongkong or to reach them through their agents and he has been successful in several instances, the reports said.

Township Official Makes Clerk's Job Racket; $35,000 Embezzlement Charged

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—How a township clerk-treasurer, whose salary was $20.53 a month, almost bankrupted the township by embezzling $35,000 over a period of nearly five years by means of forged, fraudulent warrants, was told graphically today in a report filed with State Auditor Joseph T. The clerk-treasurer was Ralph Purdy, of Montpelier, who was received Dec. 10 at Ohio penitentiary under sentence to serve from three to 63 years. He was sentenced on a plea of guilty to 333 indictment counts charging embezzlement and 332 counts charging forgery.

Purdy was clerk-treasurer of Superior township, Williams county. He also was clerk of the village of Montpelier and the Superior township rural school district. Examiner Hastings discovered that Purdy was also a frequent visitor at several alleged gambling places in Toledo.

It was at these two places that Purdy, according to the examiner's report, cashed 332 forged township warrants, totaling $34,000.

Warrants Cash

"There is no doubt that if Purdy had not had accomplices in the Toledo gambling clubs, his nefarious and dastardly scheme could not have gained such gigantic proportions," the examiner asserted, pointing out that the fraudulent warrants were cashed there without requiring Purdy's own endorsement.

The former clerk-treasurer, the report added, forged township warrants and "issued them to suit his own convenience and pleasure," issuing them in the approximate names of persons to whom legitimate township warrants were paid.

The forgeries commenced, the examiner found, on July 28, 1934. By years they totaled as follows: 1934, $1,354.30; 1935, $8,165.70; 1936, $8,235.85; 1937, $12,411; and 1938 (up to Oct. 24, when the audit commenced), $3,929.65.

Purdy not only forged warrants for his own personal benefit, but employed two women as assistant clerks, without authorization by the trustees, and issued fraudulent warrants for their salaries, totaling $1,077.

The examiner's report stated that these assistants were apparently employed "in order that he (Purdy) could be absent from the office more time to spend his ill gotten gains."

Purdy also forged the signatures of trustees to warrants for a number of personal purchases, including a $120 radio and amplifier for his automobile and $350 for a speed boat.

For Wednesday, December 14
ANOTHER day of excitement, commotion and disruption, although of not so happy a condition as dominated yesterday, is forecast for this day, judging by rather adverse lunar and mutual aspects. There is a prospect that radical change, travel and romance may give way to activities that are incident to a complete reorganization of the life and its plans. An element of hostility, vexation or real trial might arise from some young person, or an undercurrent of trickery or conspiracy may take the edge off of much delightful anticipation.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for many adverse situations arising from a reorganization of the business affairs and a reorientation of the life to new places, persons and interest. These may manifest largely through the enmity, hostility and aggravation of young people, or the subtle, deceitful or treacherous behavior of others who seem to be actuated by envy or jealousy.

A child born on this day, while energetic, versatile and enterprising, may be inclined to ways of craft and expediency rather than integrity and honest policies.

Ross Countians Disclose Results of Land Tests

Farm land may vary a great deal in composition and in topography but no type of soil will continue to be productive indefinitely under a cash grain system that continuously depletes the soil, according to three Ross county farmers who have had experience on the three general land types in the county.

Edward Peniston, Chillicothe, owns Scioto bottom lands that were once claimed to be inexhaustible and which often were planted to corn continuously. Mr. Peniston knows of one field that was in corn for 50 successive years. Spring floods brought rich top soil from upstream to these fields for years, but high waters now are more likely to deposit sand or gravel on these bottom lands than silt.

This Ross county man now has changed his rotation from corn, wheat, and sweet clover plowed down in the Spring after seeding. His fields produce grain less often and have more time to regain their productivity from clover and alfalfa crops. The change helps to solve the problem of weeds which had become very troublesome on the bottom lands. Grain is being fed to livestock on the farm instead of being used as a strictly cash crop.

Small Farm Used
Arthur Lockhard, Chillicothe, practices general farming on hilly fields that are another common land type in the county. The farms are smaller than those in the bottom lands, there are fewer crop acres for each 100 acres of land, and the usual rotation is corn, wheat, and clover. Most of the field crops are fed at home to livestock.

Under this system, Mr. Lockhard found that soil in his section was losing productivity rapidly, permanent pastures were becoming worthless, crop yields were declining rapidly, and erosion was rapid. Longer rotations that left the land in legumes or grass two years out of four, improvement of pastures with lime and fertilizer, and more effective use of manure helped conserve productivity in the type of land Mr. Lockhard owns. Ross county farmers have had considerable trouble with clover diseases, but a disease-resistant strain of clover now being increased in the county so seed will be available within a few years.

ROSS COUNTIANS ASK RELEASE OF CHARLES BUTZER

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—An application for commutation of the sentence of Charles Butzer, Londonberry, serving life for first degree murder in Ross county was being considered today by Daniel Earhart, executive secretary to Governor Davey.

Earhart conferred with a delegation of Ross county residents concerning the case yesterday and said he probably would make a recommendation to the governor later. Butzer entered the penitentiary in 1934.

Fred Bennett, personnel director of a manufacturing company where Butzer formerly was employed, accompanied the delegation and testified to Butzer's reliability as a foreman for the concern.

Earhart received a petition which he said contained about 100 names of Ross county residents supporting the application for commutation. A commutation would make Butzer eligible for parole which he cannot be while serving a life term.

All Former Students Of Athens School Asked To Gathering

Alumni of Ohio university, Athens, living in Circleville and Pickaway county, will conduct their annual anniversary dinner in Circleville on Dec. 29. The location of the gathering has not yet been decided. All graduates of the school, former students and friends are invited by the committee in charge to participate in the event. There are about 200 former students, a large proportion of whom now reside in or within driving distance of Circleville, who are urged to participate.

Guest speakers will be Dr. Herman G. James, president of the university, and Clark Williams, alumni secretary for the last 10 years.

Plans for the event are going forward under the direction of a local committee which includes Walter A. Downing, chairman, Ward Robinson, Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Mrs. Channing Vlerborne and A. A. White.

More complete details will be announced soon.

MOSELEY FLAYS ARMS PROGRAM AS UNNECESSARY

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—(UP)—Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, who until October was one of the highest ranking active officers of the army, declared today that the United States' greatest defensive weakness was in Washington, where the Roosevelt administration "gives aid and comfort" to Communists.

Urging the country to "mind its own business" in regard to the internal affairs of Europe and Asia, he said that it should "look the Communists" before it worries about other lands.

Propaganda for huge military expenditures "is a crime" and is being used "for the political purpose of finding justification for enormous expenditures under the guise of national defense," he said.

Gen. Moseley gave his views in an address prepared for delivery at noon before the annual meeting of the New York Board of Trade.

He retired on Dec. 1, his post having been command of the Third army with headquarters in Atlanta.

He characterized Bernard Baruch's "alarming statements in reference to dangers in South America" as "perfectly absurd."

Love Is Funny Thing, Etting's 'Ex' Decides

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14—(UP)—Martin (Colonel Moe, the Gimp) Snyder fidgeted today for the chance to tell a jury why he shot Ruth Etting's new boy friend during an argument, more profane than sacred, about love.

Snyder, husband of Miss Etting for 17 years and manager who aided her in reaching the pinnacle of radio stardom, heard himself called the Gimp in court, listened to Miss Etting tell how he used to beat her, and bowed his head while his daughter testified that he tried to commit murder.

He even saw the blue scar on the abdomen of young Myrl Alderman, the fiancé of his Miss Etting, and he chuckled outside the courtroom when a process server handed Alderman an order to testify in Mrs. Alma Alderman's $150,000 alimony suit against Miss Etting.

It all added up, Snyder said, to the fact that love—as many a poet has said—is a funny thing. "Awful funny," the bald-headed Snyder muttered as he hobbled away in a manner that earned him the Broadway nickname, "the Gimp." He expected the prosecution to end its case today and give him a chance to tell how his "undying love" for the square-jawed blonde he called "Mumsie" led him to invade a pork chop dinner party at Alderman's home last October 15. There, according to testimony, he shot Alderman, struggled with his own daughter, Edith, and threatened to murder Miss Etting. Snyder, who wore a spotted necktie which looked as if it might have been a Christmas gift and a scowl which appeared to be permanent, said the prosecution had his case all wrong. He claimed that he was so deeply in love with Miss Etting, despite their divorce last year, that when he heard she intended to marry Alderman, he remonstrated.

The argument waxed hot in the luxurious music room of Alderman, who used to be Miss Etting's pianist when she sang baritone on the radio, and then somebody—identity yet to be revealed—attacked Snyder with a gun, he claimed. He said he was forced to shoot in self defense.

The three witnesses told a different story. The statuesque and 40-year-old Miss Etting testified that Snyder beat her, pinched her arm, cursed her, and made life a living hell during their marital career. She told the jury that

O. O. McINTYRE LEAVES ESTATE WORTH $72,496

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—(UP)—The estate of the late O. O. McIntyre, newspaper columnist, was listed today at $72,496, exclusive of $40,000 of insurance, according to a transfer tax appraisal. The widow, Mrs. Maybelle Hope McIntyre, was the sole legatee. A copy of his contract with the McNaught Syndicate, Inc., showed that he received $2,500 a week.

shot and killed himself in his home here. A son found the body in a bedroom and police did not inform other members of the family until services for Mrs. Hadsell had been completed at a funeral home.

Miss Snyder, who is Miss Etting's secretary, told the jury she thought Alderman had been killed and that Snyder started chasing Miss Etting with the revolver. "I begged him not to," she said. "I begged with him not to harm her. I told him Ruthie was all I had."

"I picked up the little gun Miss Etting had," Miss Snyder said, speaking shakily and avoiding her father's gaze, "and shot at him, but the bullet went into the floor."

"Do your Christmas shopping so that you can mail your gifts, greetings, and letters to relatives, friends and loved ones at least a week or 10 days before Christmas, according to the distance," Postmaster Hulse Hays advised.

All articles must be securely packed and wrapped. Strong paper and heavy twine should be used. Articles easily broken or crushed must be securely packed and crated or boxed. Use liberal quantities of excelsior or a like material in, around, and between the articles and the outside container. All articles easily broken or damaged must be plainly marked "Fragile." Parcels containing perishable articles should be marked "Perishable" and packed in a suitable container, according to contents.

Instruction Given

Umbrellas, canes and golf clubs should be reinforced their full length by strong strips of wood tightly wrapped and tied or otherwise sufficiently wrapped to withstand transportation. When three or more are tied together, wrapped or tied, no reinforcement is necessary.

Hats should be packed in strong corrugated or fiberboard boxes. Ordinary pasteboard hat boxes must be crated. Shoes should be packed in strong boxes, preferably corrugated cardboard. Cut flowers must be placed in strong, suitable boxes of wood, tin, or heavy corrugated cardboard. They should be wrapped with tissue to retain moisture.

Candies should be enclosed in strong outside boxes or containers. Drawings, paintings, unmounted maps, etc., should be packed in strong material to prevent damage. COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—An application for commutation of the sentence of Charles Butzer, Londonderry, serving life for first degree murder in Ross county was being considered today by Daniel Earhart, executive secretary to Governor Davey.

This Ross county man now has changed his rotation from corn, wheat, and sweet clover plowed down in the Spring after seeding. Ross county farmers have had considerable trouble with clover diseases, but a disease-resistant strain of clover now is being increased in the county so seed will be available within a few years.

Frank Brown, Chillicothe, operates 500 acres that are part bottom and part level to rolling upland. Soil productivity problems occur on this farm as they did on the other two types. Mr. Brown formerly used a two-year rotation of corn, wheat, sweet clover plowed down in the bottoms and a three-year rotation on the upland. A year of legume and grass mixtures has been added to crop rotations on this farm which are which are used on both bottom and upland soil. Mr. Brown uses on alfalfa-timothy mixture in the new rotations on crop land and also has seeded benches with the mixture for semi-permanent meadows. He believes wheat had been produced on the farm at little or no profit and has balanced his reduced corn acreage by growing hybrids that produce higher yields per acre.

Benefits Cited

All three farmers report to Fred R. Keeler, county agricultural agent, that the changes in crop rotation have permitted maintaining or increasing livestock numbers on their farms. Grain fed at home is much less destructive to soil productivity than grain sold as a cash crop if the manure produced on the livestock farm is properly handled.

Farm land may vary a great deal in composition and in topography but no type of soil will continue to be productive indefinitely under a cash grain system that continuously depletes the soil, according to three Ross county farmers who have had experience on the three general land types in the county.

Edward Peniston, Chillicothe, owns Scioto bottom lands that were once claimed to be inexhaustible and which often were planted to corn continuously. Mr. Peniston knows of one field that was in corn for 50 successive years. Spring floods brought rich top soil from upstream to these fields for years, but high waters now are more likely to deposit sand or gravel on these bottom lands than silt.

This Ross county man now has changed his rotation from corn, wheat, and sweet clover plowed down in the Spring after seeding. His fields produce grain less often and have more time to regain their productivity from clover and alfalfa crops. The change helps to solve the problem of weeds which had become very troublesome on the bottom lands. Grain is being fed to livestock on the farm instead of being used as a strictly cash crop.

Small Farm Used

Arthur Lockhard, Chillicothe, practices general farming on hilly fields that are another common land type in the county. The farms are smaller than those in the bottom lands, there are fewer crop acres for each 100 acres of land, and the usual rotation is corn, wheat, and clover. Most of the field crops are fed at home to livestock.

Under this system, Mr. Lockhard found that soil in his section was losing productivity rapidly, permanent pastures were becoming worthless, crop yields were declining rapidly, and erosion was rapid.

Longer rotations that left the land in legumes or grass two years out of four, improvement of pastures with lime and fertilizer, and more effective use of manure helped conserve productivity in the type of land Mr. Lockhard owns. Ross county farmers have had considerable trouble with clover diseases, but a disease-resistant strain of clover now is being increased in the county so seed will be available within a few years.

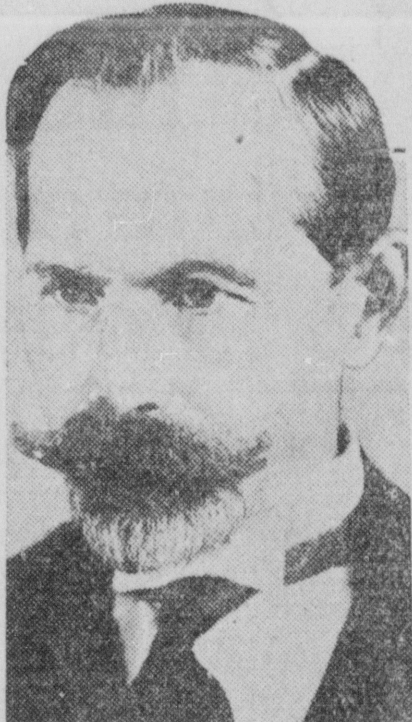

Frank Brown, Chillicothe, operates 500 acres that are part bottom and part level to rolling upland. Soil productivity problems occur on this farm as they did on the other two types. Mr. Brown formerly used a two-year rotation of corn, wheat, sweet clover plowed down in the bottoms and a three-year rotation on the upland.

A year of legume and grass mixtures has been added to crop rotations on this farm which are which are used on both bottom and upland soil. Mr. Brown uses an alfalfa-timothy mixture in the new rotations on crop land and also has seeded benches with the mixture for semi-permanent meadows. He believes wheat had been produced on the farm at little or no profit and has balanced his reduced corn acreage by growing hybrids that produce higher yields per acre.

Benefits Cited

All three farmers report to Fred R. Keeler, county agricultural agent, that the changes in crop rotation have permitted maintaining or increasing livestock numbers on their farms. Grain fed at home is much less destructive to soil productivity than grain sold as a cash crop if the manure produced on the livestock farm is properly handled.

ROSS COUNTIANS ASK RELEASE OF CHARLES BUTZER

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—An application for commutation of the sentence of Charles Butzer, Londonderry, serving life for first degree murder in Ross county was being considered today by Daniel Earhart, executive secretary to Governor Davey.

Earhart conferred with a delegation of Ross county residents concerning the case yesterday and said he probably would make a recommendation to the governor later. Butzer entered the penitentiary in 1934.

Fred Bennett, personnel director of a manufacturing company where Butzer formerly was employed, accompanied the delegation and testified to Butzer's reliability as a foreman for the concern.

Earhart received a petition which he said contained about 100 names of Ross county residents supporting the application for commutation. A commutation would make Butzer eligible for parole which he cannot be while serving a life term.

Plans for the event are going forward under the direction of a local committee which includes Walter A. Downing, chairman, Ward Robinson, Mrs. G. D. Phillips, Mrs. Channing Vlerehome and A. A. White.

MOSELEY FLAYS ARMS PROGRAM AS UNNECESSARY

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—(UP)—Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, who until October was one of the highest ranking active officers of the army, declared today that the United States' greatest defensive weakness was in Washington, where the Roosevelt administration "gives aid and comfort" to Communists.

Urging the country to "mind its own business" in regard to the internal affairs of Europe and Asia, he said that it should "lick the Communists" before it worries about other lands.

Propaganda for huge military expenditures "is a crime" and is being used "for the political purpose of finding justification for enormous expenditures under the guise of national defense," he said.

Gen. Moseley gave his views in an address prepared for delivery at noon before the annual meeting of the New York Board of Trade. He retired on Dec. 1, his post having been command of the Third army with headquarters in Atlanta.

He characterized Bernard Baruch's "alarming statements in reference to dangers in South America" as "perfectly absurd."

Love Is Funny Thing, Etting's 'Ex' Decides

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14—(UP)—Martin (Colonel Moe, the Gimp) Snyder fidgeted today for the chance to tell a jury why he shot Ruth Etting's new boy friend during an argument, more profane than sacred, about love.

Snyder, husband of Miss Etting for 17 years and manager who aided her in reaching the pinnacle of radio stardom, heard himself called the Gimp in court, listened to Miss Etting tell how he used to beat her, and bowed his head while his daughter testified that he tried to commit murder.

He even saw the blue scar on the abdomen of young Myrl Alderman, the fiancée of his Miss Etting, and he chuckled outside the courtroom when a process server handed Alderman an order to testify in Mrs. Alma Alderman's $150,000 alimony suit against Miss Etting.

It all added up, Snyder said, to the fact that love—as many a poet has said—is a funny thing. "Awful funny," the bald-headed Snyder muttered as he hobbled away in a manner that earned him the Broadway nickname, "the Gimp." He expected the prosecution to end its case today and give him a chance to tell how his "undying love" for the square-jawed blonde he called "Mumsie" led him to invade a pork chop dinner party at Alderman's home last October 15. There, according to testimony, he shot Alderman, struggled with his own daughter, Edith, and threatened to murder Miss Etting.

Snyder, who wore a spotted necktie which looked as if it might have been a Christmas gift and a scowl which appeared to be permanent, said the prosecution had his case all wrong. He claimed that he was so deeply in love with Miss Etting, despite their divorce last year, that when he heard she intended to marry Alderman, he remonstrated.

The argument waxed hot in the luxurious music room of Alderman, who used to be Miss Etting's pianist when she sang baritone on the radio, and then somebody—identity yet to be revealed—attacked Snyder with a gun, he claimed. He said he was forced to shoot in self defense.

The three witnesses told a different story. The statuesque and 40 year old Miss Etting testified that Snyder beat her, pinched her arm, cursed her, and made life a living hell during their marital career. She told the jury that she'd rather be dead than live with him again and she clung to her assertion, during rigid cross-examination, that he brandished a .38 calibre revolver and shot Alderman even while she begged him to do nothing for which he might be sorry.

Edith Snyder, who was pretty in a dark and wan way and looked surprisingly like her father, took up the tale which could send him to prison for 115 years, should he be convicted on six counts of attempted murder, technical kidnapping and gun law violation.

Miss Snyder, who is Miss Etting's secretary, told the jury she thought Alderman had been killed and that Snyder started chasing Miss Etting with the revolver. "I begged him not to," she said. "I pleaded with him not to harm her. I told him Ruthie was all I had."

"I picked up the little gun Miss Etting had," Miss Snyder said, speaking shakily and avoiding her father's gaze, "and shot at him, but the bullet went into the floor."

The trial of Walker before a three judge court lasted only two days. Walker's plea was self defense. The decision of the judges was given at 4:35 p. m. It included the recommendation of mercy.

Walker told his story in the Tuesday session. He asserted he shot Turner twice after Turner had attacked him on Aug. 24.

Judges who heard the case were Wilbur M. McKenzie of Ross county, U. S. McGonagle of Perry county and Jacob E. Davis, Pike county.

State Schools Arrange Health Day Programs

"Friday, Dec. 16, has been designated as 'School Health Day' when Ohio Schools will participate in the Christmas Seal educational campaign by special projects, according to E. N. Dietrich, director of the department of education of Ohio. A teaching unit on 'Christmas in the Home,' prepared for the National Tuberculosis Association by Ruth M. Strang, Associate Professor of Education, Teachers College, Columbia University, and Grace Reeves, Horace Mann School of Teachers College, New York City, and distributed by the Ohio Public Health Association, Columbus, is being made available to the schools by County Tuberculosis Associations.

The unit carries out the theme of the 1938 Christmas Seal and presents glimpses of home living years ago, with brief pictures of life in the days of Koch of Germany, Laennec of France, Trudeau of America, and Holboell of Denmark four heroes in the anti-tuberculosis movement. Many suggestions are given for pupils of various ages to carry out toward gaining an appreciation of home living of the past and the present.

"It is important to interest students in the tuberculosis campaign," said Dr. Dietrich. "They represent the group in which lies our greatest hope for control of the disease. By increasing our efforts in this group through more education, and through tuberculin testing and X-raying many breakdowns from tuberculosis can be averted. Considerably more than half of all deaths from tuberculosis occur in the years between 15 and 45, and the rate among young women from 15 to 25 is one and a half times that of young men of the same age."

Breaking up of the atom is an interesting experiment, but what University of Southern California is wondering about is the Duke line.

After the winning at Pittsburgh where the animals exhibited were sold, the Flushing Baby Beef Club sent five steers and six lambs to the Cleveland Livestock Show. Tom Johnson won third on his steer, and Helen Campbell won fourth in the Shorthorn class. Marguerite Johnson had the champion Angus steer which also was the reserve champion of the Show and sold for 30 cents a pound.

The Flushing Baby Beef Club has four boys and six girls as members, and Charles Johnson is the club adviser. All Belmont county clubs work under a system which designates the group as an honor club if it scores 95 points. The Flushing club finished in the honor class this year.

Negro Pleaded Self Defense Prior To Fatal Shooting On Aug. 24

Ira Walker, 54, Chillicothe Negro barber, was sentenced to a life term, Tuesday, for the first degree murder of Fred A. Turner, 39, formerly of Circleville. His trial was in Ross county Common Pleas court.

The trial of Walker before a three judge court lasted only two days. Walker's plea was self defense. The decision of the judges was given at 4:35 p. m. It included the recommendation of mercy.

Walker told his story in the Tuesday session. He asserted he shot Turner twice after Turner had attacked him on Aug. 24.

Judges who heard the case were Wilbur M. McKenzie of Ross county, U. S. McGonagle of Perry county, and Jacob E. Davis, Pike county.

The two-day trial of Walker was the shortest murder trial in Ross county court history.

Turner was employed at one time by the Container Corporation of America.

FEE ON HOTEL CHECKS

NEW ORLEANS—(UP)—Hotels in New Orleans have started charging fees for cashing guests' checks, but contend they'll still not "break even." Managers estimated that fees charged by the banks for depositing checks cost the hotels in the city between $10,000 and $12,000 a year.

AGENDA, Kas. — (UP) — A watch that had been lost for 15 years was found in a field that was being disced on the farm of Otto Neuvians near here. The watch had only one scratch and the crystal had not even been broken although the field had been farmed each year.

BELMONT COUNTY 4-H STOCK CLUB CLAIMS HONORS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14.—Belmont county 4-H livestock club members, by winning major honors at the Pittsburgh and the Cleveland Livestock shows, served notice on youngsters from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Indiana that Ohio club members know how to fit and show livestock, according to Lawrence Daniels, Belmont county club agent.

Belmont county boys and girls notified other Ohio club members of their proficiency in feeding livestock at the Ohio State Fair, where Belmont steers won grand championship in the 4-H class and several prizes in the open classes competing against cattle exhibited by experienced showmen. The Belmont club also feeds and shows lambs.

At the Pittsburgh 4-H Livestock Show, Tom Johnson, Flushing, showed the grand champion steer

State Schools Arrange Health Day Programs

"Friday, Dec. 16, has been designated as "School Health Day" when Ohio Schools will participate in the Christmas Seal educational campaign by special projects, according to E. N. Dietrich, director of the department of education of Ohio. A teaching unit on "Christmas in the Home," prepared for the National Tuberculosis Association by Ruth M. Strang, Associate Professor of Education, Teachers College, Columbia University, and Grace Reeves, Horace Mann School of Teachers College, New York City, and distributed by the Ohio Public Health Association, Columbus, is being made available to the schools by County Tuberculosis Associations.

The unit carries out the theme of the 1938 Christmas Seal and presents glimpses of home living years ago, with brief pictures of life in the days of Koch of Germany, Laennec of France, Trudeau of America, and Holboell of Denmark four heroes in the anti-tuberculosis movement. Many suggestions are given for pupils of various ages to carry out toward gaining an appreciation of home living of the past and the present.

"It is important to interest students in the tuberculosis campaign," said Dr. Dietrich. "They represent the group in which lies our greatest hope for control of the disease. By increasing our efforts in this group through more education, and through tuberculin testing and X-raying many breakdowns from tuberculosis can be averted. Considerably more than half of all deaths from tuberculosis occur in the years between 15 and 45, and the rate among young women from 15 to 25 is one and a half times that of young men of the same age.

Breaking up of the atom is an interesting experiment, but what University of Southern California is wondering about is the Duke line.

After the winning at Pittsburgh where the animals exhibited were sold, the Flushing Baby Beef Club sent five steers and six lambs to the Cleveland Livestock Show. Tom Johnson won third on his steer, and Helen Campbell won fourth in the Shorthorn class. Marguerite Johnson had the champion Angus steer which also was the reserve champion of the Show and sold for 30 cents a pound.

The Flushing Baby Beef Club has four boys and six girls as members, and Charles Johnson is the club adviser. All Belmont county clubs work under a system which designates the group as an honor club if it scores 95 points. The Flushing club finished in the honor class this year.

COMFORT OF IDLENESS

DR. ISADOR LUBIN, economic expert and statistician, tells government inquirers that unemployment during the last nine years has cost American wage and salary earners $119,000,000,000, and the total cost of the depression to the nation since 1929 has been $133,000,000,000. The latter figure probably represents about one-third of the wealth of this country.

It is a huge price to pay for idleness, and the nation can't continue paying it much longer. Somehow the millions of idle men and women must be got back to work. This is the one great problem confronting the American people. Compared with it, all other difficulties are unimportant.

THREE NOBLE TRUTHS

CHARLOTTE CARR, successor to Jane Addams as head of the famous Hull House in Chicago, with an incredible amount of useful public service to her credit, has a knack of putting a lot of truth into a few words. Here are three things she has said lately:

"Child labor is cheap—until you have to build penitentiaries and asylums."

"The only good Communists are fed Communists."

"Charity costs more than unions."

Many other people interested in such matters might have expanded each of these statements into a book.

EMBASSIES WITHOUT AMBASSADORS

IT LOOKS as if a new policy has developed in diplomacy. Just as there was no formal declaration of war at the start of any of the conflicts now raging in various parts of the world, so governments have begun to express mutual disapproval without formally severing diplomatic relations. The new technique merely requires that an ambassador be called home to report, or go home for a vacation and then stay there. He does not resign. No ambassador is appointed to take his place. Minor officials of the embassy remain at their posts and carry on their routine duties.

The United States appears to be practicing this system with regard to the Russian and German governments.

The advantage of such a method is that it is easier to resume normal diplomacy again at any time than it would be after an open break. Whether it is effective otherwise remains to be proved.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up in fine humor and unusual peace of mind even though what seemed to be most of the night had been devoted to an experience as sen, one of being cast upon an island with only oysters as a source of food supply, and then an attempt to swim 1,700 mile back to the American mainland. Maybe the fact that I had been Bill Radcliff's guest at a Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood oyster supper in the early evening prompted the dream, for we had oysters raw, oysters escalloped and oysters stewed. And all good, very good, and I ate more than my share.

Good humor and peace of mind also were induced by that meeting. Any and all fears as to the future of America were dispelled. This nation has nothing to fear so long as we have men such as assembled at that Methodist church, God fearing men, men with a common interest in their community and nation, intelligent men, hard working men, men who set, and whose example that the youngsters enjoy following them. There were Thomas Carter, Virgil Mossbarger and S. I. Pickel, all 84 years of age, and there also were youngsters 16 or 17, with some 75 others of all ages between the youngest and oldest.

This is America. At that Brotherhood session in the Methodist church were assembled not only Methodists, but Catholics, Presbyterians, Lutherans, Baptists and others, all members of the organization. And the chairman of the next meeting is a Catholic. Where else except in America.

Dr. Marshman, head of the department of speech at Ohio Wesleyan, was the speaker of the evening, but I heard too little of his talk. I was entirely too engaged in drinking my fill again of pride in citizenship and confidence of the future. Those of you needing restored confidence should attend the next Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood meeting. And if you don't feel simply repaid for the effort then you are beyond all hope.

Ed Rector heads the organization. He met me at the door and introduced me to J. F. Puffinberger, who last Sunday was elected superintendent of the Sunday school for the 57th time. Yes, 57th time. There, I think, is a world record. It is easily understood, too, when one meets that fine old churchman. I met, among others, John Carter, J. W. Haughn, S. R. Tener, H. W. Campbell and T. E. Carmean, all charter members of the Brotherhood, and men who in the last 25 years have not missed more than a dozen Brotherhood meetings.

Ed Wallace was there. He attends most of the sessions, for that is his native district. He attended school right across the road from the church and moved away 38 years ago. He goes back at every opportunity, and I can understand that, too. He has promised to take me back with him the next time he goes and I hope he does not forget.

This America of ours is a grand and glorious country peopled with many grand folk. After leaving that meeting I think that my taxes could have been doubled with little complaint from me.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

"SPEND AND SPEND" TRACED

WASHINGTON—Friends of Harry Hopkins claim they have uncovered the real source of the hotly disputed remark attributed to him, "We will tax and tax, and spend and spend, and elect and elect."

Arthur Krock, able Washington correspondent of The New York Times, charged the relief administrator with making the statement at a racetrack. Hopkins wrote a letter to The Times denying authorship and demanding that Krock reveal his source. Krock refused, saying he was pledged to secrecy, but insisted that the informant was reliable.

Now intimates of Hopkins say the original author of the statement was Berney Baruch, millionaire New York financier and bitter secret foe of Hopkins; also that General Hugh Johnson, ex-NRA boss and one-time business associate of Baruch, publicly quoted Baruch as having said it.

As their proof, Hopkins' friends cite a speech made by Johnson September 13, 1933, at a Merchants Association banquet in New York, in which he said, "Some months ago one of our greatest liberal statesmen, Bernard Baruch, said in a speech advising action, something like this—'Tax, tax everybody for everything—spend, spend for re-employment . . .'"

SPANISH WAR

Decision of the United States to propose a settlement of the Spanish Civil War by Pan American countries is the first move made by the New Deal independent of the Chamberlain government in many months.

The strategy was, mapped by the American delegation to the Pan-American Conference before Cordell Hull left for Lima. Word also was communicated to London and Paris well in advance of the conference opening.

At first, diplomatic representatives of European democracies were inclined to belittle the power of Spanish-American countries to help settle such a bitter battle. Later, however, they realized that the psychological effect of the American proposal would be a telling blow against Fascist-Nazi dictators.

The proposal may not get very far, but at least it will show the definite interest of the USA in restoring peace in Spain.

LADY REPRESENTATIVE

Miss Jessie Sumner will cause a sharp drop in the average age of the lady members of Congress. Mrs. Mary Norton of New Jersey is 63, Mrs. Caroline O'Day of New York is 63, and Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts is 57.

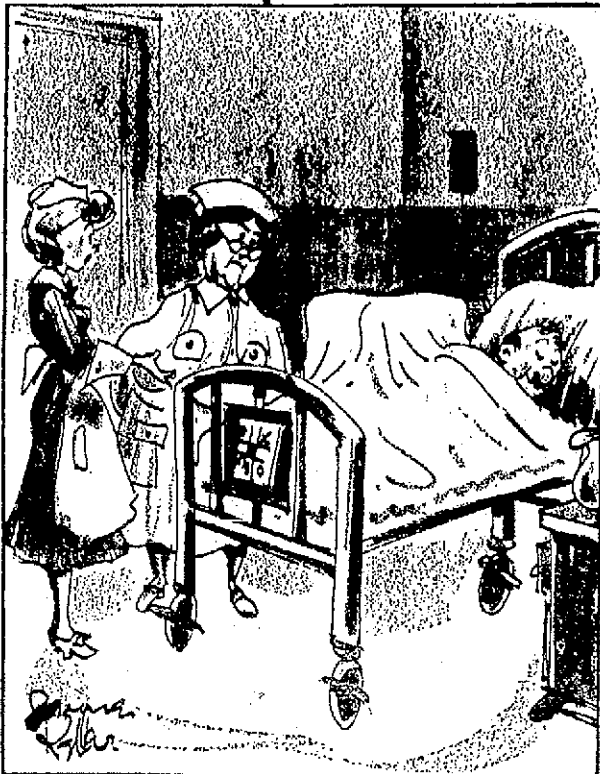

But Miss Sumner, Republican, of Illinois is only 39.

Yet she has been around. She graduated at Smith College, studied law at Oxford, England, opened a law office in Chicago, and worked for the Chase National Bank in New York on income tax and trust cases.

Then she went back to Iroquois County, Illinois, and became a County Judge.

The lady is modest withal. She wrote a letter to Washington, in advance of her coming, saying, "I am afraid that you will shortly discover that I am not a very sparkling person."

COMFORT OF HOME

"I had to put a piece of ice in his bed—he says he misses his wife's cold feet on his back!"

DIET AND HEALTH

Troubles of Feet In Winter Season

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE THINK of foot troubles as being mostly due to weight-bearing. Flatfoot is the comprehensive term for them. There are minor varieties of flatfoot. "March foot" is caused by over-fatigue of a weak foot and affects the base of the second, sometimes the third and fourth toes. Treatment includes proper shoes, support of weakened arches and graduated exercise. "Policeman's heel" may be due to pressure, arthritis or injury.

These troubles occur mostly in the mild weather, which makes up ten months of our American year. They come on when we can get out and walk around freely and comfortably, and use and abuse our feet.

There are other troubles of the feet, however, peculiar to the winter season. Certain people are particularly sensitive to them, people who have rather rigid or unstable arteries. You know there are these so sensitive in this way that they plunge into cold water will contract the arteries of the extremities until they become quite white and lifeless, and fainting spells may come on. They have learned that they cannot go in swimming where the water is under 70 degrees.

Elderly Suffer Much

Elderly people, because their arteries are no longer elastic, suffer much from the effects of cold and wet winter streets. Heavy woolen socks and no constricting garters are worn by them.

Especially should diabetics avoid exposure of this kind. The diabetic's feet are a vulnerable point with him. He should always sit with the feet elevated at least on a footstool and avoid pressure on the backs of the legs on the edge of the chair. He should certainly avoid snowy streets.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The typical example of the effects of cold on the feet is chilblains. It results from a previous mild frostbite and involves usually the heel or the toes. When again exposed to cold, the part becomes congested, and on being warmed there is itching, tingling and stinging, with swelling and redness. Sometimes it becomes covered with blisters; even ulceration may occur.

The best treatment of chilblains is prevention. When they once have occurred, they are certain to come on again with exposure. Warm stockings, loose shoes, no constricting garters will help protect. Mitchell, an Australian surgeon, treats chilblains on the principle of direct elastic pressure. Thin pieces of rubber, the weight of medium rubber gloves, are used in strips to cover the foot. The stocking is put on over them. He claims that the condition is relieved instantly.

If the chilblains have occurred, mild rubbing, bathing in cool water and alcohol are tried at first. Glycerin, either alone or in combination with boracic acid, or tincture of iodine painted on the sore place, is of great value.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven paragraphs by Dr. Clendenning can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper, "The pamphlets are: 'Three Ways of Feeling Hot,' 'Indigestion and Constipation,' 'Reducing and Gaining,' 'Infant Feeding,' 'Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes,' 'Feminine Hygiene' and 'The Care of the Hair and Skin.'"

CONTRACT BRIDGE

THE SMOTHER PLAY

ONE OF THE prettiest, yet least understood, maneuvers in the game is that which has become known as the "smother play." It is a device to prevent a trump trick by an opponent who seems offhand to have a secondary honor so thoroughly guaranteed that he is sure of a trick. Opportunities for the play are rare, but its execution brings enough satisfaction to the real bridge artist to last him for a good while.

He next played three rounds of clubs and two of spades, and ruffed a heart. Then a losing spade was offered with the hope that East would have to take it. When he did, he was in the position where he could return only a heart or a club.

His selection was a heart, on which South played the diamond 10. We were in the position where he had to under-ruff or put on his king. In either event declarer makes game.

ROMANCE IN C

BY GREN ARNOLD

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER 48

A THOUGHTFUL man can face danger.

He can, and frequently does, defy death itself and think little of it. He can face death threatening himself, and he can even face it threatening members of his family, and rationalize it as something inevitable and not necessarily terrifying.

But no man, especially no thoughtful and honest man, can ever anticipate the shattering damage to his soul that comes when a woman he loves refuses his offer of marriage. Something in this is utterly devastating. It is worse than death's sorrow because nothing—not even Time—at the moment holds any promise of surcease. Man's emotions can sink no lower than to hear a beloved sweetheart say "No."

Sara Sue Davis did not love T. J. Sanders, and had the extremely difficult task of telling him so. His proposal had been vaguely expected "sometime" in the future for she was astute enough to know that he was sincerely attracted to her. And just as vaguely had she planned to do something about it before he actually came to the point, as she had adroitly sidetracked Worthington Gurley and made him infinitely happy. But she had simply procrastinated in trying to be rid of T. J.

"—and so, T. J., don't you see it now?" She was speaking ever so gently. "It is a sweet of you to want me; I shall never forget the honor you have paid me. I think you are fine, really fine. You are still young, and you will go far in business, and somewhere else—will some girl whom you may not even know yet—you will find a happiness greater than you could find with me, and—"

"Never!" he avowed.

"—oh, but you will! I know it. You have just enjoyed friendship with me, and somehow imagine you love me. Perhaps you really do love me, at the moment, T. J. I almost wish that I loved you back. But—"

hear the dance music and the gaiety in the big ballroom, but it did not disturb her, and she was glad of the chance to rest briefly alone.

"I hope I didn't hurt him," she mused. "I never thought he'd ask me tonight. I wish—I wish I could talk to Thornton."

She smiled wistfully at her own thoughts then. Strange, indeed, that she should have so romantic a proposal from one man she didn't want, and have none at all from the one she did want. She, Sara Sue Davis, who was supposed to be very attractive and who, people said, could have any man on the campus. She had heard the talk about herself, inevitably. It had been flattering talk. Now, though, the situation became one of sardonic laughter. Fate again was playing tricks. Her chin trembled at the poignancy of it, and Sara Sue had to cry again.

It helps a great deal to cry. "Don't cry, little girl, don't cry," is age old and foolish advice. Let the little girl cry, be she eight or 80, for no other release is quite so comforting for a woman.

In five minutes Sara Sue felt better. Not that the deep pain in her heart was gone—no! Her love for Thornton Holgate was etched there forever, she knew. And would have to stay buried there in secrecy, always. But she could be superficially at ease now. She sought a light, and with lipstick and rouge and powder erased the outward evidence of stress. She took a deep breath or two at the window, and regained her traditional poise. She felt now that she could go calmly on through the remainder of the dance, then do whatever private "thinking" she felt inclined to when she was at home in there, too!

"Sara Sue! It was T. J., back again. 'Here she is, Bob. Come on—in here where it's private.'"

He was leading Bob Towne, who was frankly curious. The intently serious expression on Sanders' face had told him this was no part of the evening's general gaiety and fun.

"What's it all about?" Bob was repeating.

"Listen and I'll tell you," T. J. began then. "I wanted you, and Sara Sue both. I want you, first, Bob. I want to congratulate you. You win, my friend."

He stuck out a hand which Bob automatically shook, but—"Win what?"

"Win Sara Sue. I—I—well, the truth is, Towne, I'm licked. It's no secret that we've both been courting her. I did everything I could, and I—well, we understand each other thoroughly now. I know where I get off. And I want both of you to know that there's no hard feelings. I wanted to tell you both. You have a swell girl. Congratulations again."

Bob and Sara Sue were too startled to a cak, so T. J. went on. "And another thing, Towne—I had planned to do this in student assembly next week. My boss said it was the proper place. Of course, we'll do it officially there, too, but this is more important now. I can announce now that you have been awarded the Columbus Sporting Goods prize. It won't be the thousand dollars we announced at first, but I imagine it'll be enough for a short honeymoon, anyway. Matter of fact—" T. J. forced a friendly grin at them—"it will be more. The Columbus officials agreed a month ago to raise it to fifteen hundred, if our sales passed a certain quota in the southwest this fall. The sales went higher. They figure your endorsement of our line is worth more than the thousand. So you get five hundred bucks extra. I hope you buy Sara Sue something extra-special with it. Well, good luck."

With just that abruptness he turned and went away.

Bob and Sara Sue hadn't had a chance to interrupt him, to thank him, to say anything at all. Astonishment controlled them until he was out of sight and out of hearing.

"Well, I'll be dog-goned da—" Bob almost swore, in his reverberating. Suddenly the realization of it all swept over him. His face brightened. He turned to Sara Sue—"Did you hear him? Did you?"

Sara Sue swallowed.

"Fifteen hundred, Sara Sue?—in here where it's private." And—say, you turned him down? He proposed, and you turned him down? Say—oh, gee honey, it's wonderful—see YOW!"

Probably Bob Towne will holler loudly, or yodel or give a rebel yell if and when Saint Peter beckons him to enter the Golden Gates. No other way can such an ebullient young man express elation.

He grabbed her by both arms and began dancing a jig with her, trying to kiss her at the same time.

"Stop it, Bob!" she demanded. "Stop it, I tell you, and listen to me!"

COST OF IDLENESS
DR. ISADOR LUBIN, economic expert and statistician, tells government inquirers that unemployment during the last nine years has cost American wage and salary earners $119,000,000,000, and the total cost of the depression to the nation since 1929 has been $133,000,000,000. The latter figure probably represents about one-third of the wealth of this country.

It is a huge price to pay for idleness, and the nation can't continue paying it much longer. Somehow the millions of idle men and women must be got back to work. This is the one great problem confronting the American people. Compared with it, all other difficulties are unimportant.

THREE NOBLE TRUTHS
CHARLOTTE CARR, successor to Jane Addams as head of the famous Hull House in Chicago, with an incredible amount of useful public service to her credit, has a knack of putting a lot of truth into a few words. Here are three things she has said lately:

"Child labor is cheap—until you have to build penitentiaries and asylums."
"The only good Communists are fed Communists."
"Charity costs more than unions."

Many other people interested in such matters might have expanded each of these statements into a book.

EMBASSIES WITHOUT AMBASSADORS
IT LOOKS as if a new policy has developed in diplomacy. Just as there was no formal declaration of war at the start of any of the conflicts now raging in various parts of the world, so governments have begun to express mutual disapproval without formally severing diplomatic relations. The new technique merely requires that an ambassador be called home to report, or go home for a vacation and then stay there. He does not resign. No ambassador is appointed to take his place. Minor officials of the embassy remain at their posts and carry on their routine duties.

The United States appears to be practicing this system with regard to the Russian and German governments. The advantage of such a method is that it is easier to resume normal diplomacy again at any time than it would be after an open break. Whether it is effective otherwise remains to be proved.

Up in fine humor and unusual peace of mind even though what seemed to be most of the night had been devoted to an experience at sea, one of being cast upon an island with only oysters as a source of food supply, and then an attempt to swim 1,700 mile back to the American mainland. Maybe the fact that I had been Bill Radcliff's guest at a Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood oyster supper in the early evening prompted the dream, for we had oysters raw, oysters escalloped and oysters stewed. And all good, very good, and I ate more than my share.
Good humor and peace of mind also were induced by that meeting. Any and all fears as to the future of America were dispelled. This nation has nothing to fear so long as we have men such as assembled at that Methodist church, God fearing men, men with a common interest in their community and nation, intelligent men, hard working men, men who set such fine examples that the youngsters enjoy following them. There were Thomas Carter, Virgil Mossbarger and S. I. Pickel, all 84 years of age, and there also were youngsters 16 or 17, with some 75 others of all ages between the youngest and oldest.

This is America. At that Brotherhood session in the Methodist church were assembled not only Methodists, but Catholics, Presbyterians, Lutherans, Baptists and others, all members of the organization. And the chairman of the next meeting is a Catholic. Where else except in America.
Dr. Marshman, head of the department of speech at Ohio Wesleyan, was the speaker of the evening, but I heard too little of his talk. I was entirely too engaged in drinking my fill again of pride in citizenship and confidence of the future. Those of you needing restored confidence should attend the next Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood meeting. And if you don't feel amply repaid for the effort then you are beyond all hope.
Ed Reor heads the organization. He met me at the door and introduced me to C. F. Puffinbarger, who last Sunday was elected superintendent of the Sunday school for the 57th time. Yes, 57th time. There, I think, is a world record. It is easily understood, too, when one meets that fine old churchman. I met, among others, John Carter, J. W. Haughn, S. R. Tener, H. W. Campbell and T. E. Carnean, all charter members of the Brotherhood, and men who in the last 25 years have not missed more than a dozen Brotherhood meetings.

Ed Wallace was there. He attends most of the sessions, for that is his native district. He attended school right across the road from the church and moved away 38 years ago. He goes back at every opportunity, and I can understand that, too. He has promised to take me back with him the next time he goes and I hope he does not forget.
This America of ours is a grand and glorious country people with many grand folk. After leaving that meeting I think that my taxes could have been doubled with little complaint from me.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

"SPEND AND SPEND" TRACED
WASHINGTON—Friends of Harry Hopkins claim they have uncovered the real source of the hotly disputed remark attributed to him, "We will tax and tax, and spend and spend, and elect and elect."
Arthur Krock, able Washington correspondent of The New York Times, charged the relief administrator with making the statement at a racetrack. Hopkins wrote a letter to The Times denying authorship and demanding that Krock reveal his source. Krock refused, saying he was pledged to secrecy, but insisted that the informant was reliable.
Now intimates of Hopkins say the original author of the statement was Berney Baruch, millionaire New York financier and bitter secret foe of Hopkins; also that General Hugh Johnson, ex-NRA boss and one-time business associate of Baruch, publicly quoted Baruch as having said it.
As their proof, Hopkins' friends cite a speech made by Johnson September 13, 1933, at a Merchants Association banquet in New York, in which he said, "Some months ago one of our greatest liberal statesmen, Bernard Baruch, said in a speech advising action, something like this—"Tax, tax everybody for everything—spend, spend for re-employment. . ."

SPANISH WAR
Decision of the United States to propose a settlement of the Spanish Civil War by Pan American countries is the first move made by the New Deal independent of the Chamberlain government in many months.
The strategy was, mapped by the American delegation to the Pan-American Conference before Cordell Hull left for Lima. Word also was communicated to London and Paris well in advance of the conference opening.
At first, diplomatic representatives of European democracies were inclined to belittle the power of Spanish-American countries to help settle such a bitter battle. Later, however, they realized that the psychological effect of the American proposal would be a telling blow against Fascist-Nazi dictators.
The proposal may not get very far, but at least it will show the definite interest of the USA in restoring peace in Spain.

LADY REPRESENTATIVE
Miss Jessie Sumner will cause a sharp drop in the average age of the lady members of Congress. Mrs. Mary Norton of New Jersey is 63, Mrs. Caroline O'Day of New York is 63, and Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts is 57.
But Miss Sumner, Republican, of Illinois is only 39.
Yet she has been around. She graduated at Smith College, studied law at Oxford, England, opened a law office in Chicago, and worked for the Chase National Bank in New York on income tax and trust cases.
Then she went back to Iroquois County, Illinois, and became a County Judge.
The lady is modest withal. She wrote a letter to Washington, in advance of her coming, saying, "I am afraid that you will shortly discover that I am not a very sparkling person."

DIET AND HEALTH
Troubles of Feet In Winter Season

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WE THINK of foot troubles as being mostly due to weight-bearing. Flatfoot is the comprehensive term for them. There are minor varieties of flatfoot. "March foot" is caused by over-fatigue of a weak foot and affects the base of the second, sometimes the third and fourth toes. Treatment includes proper shoes, support of weakened arches and graduated exercise. "Policeman's heel" may be due to pressure, arthritis or injury.
These troubles occur mostly in the mild weather, which makes up ten months of our American year. They come on when we can get out and walk around freely and comfortably, and use and abuse our feet.
There are other troubles of the feet, however, peculiar to the winter season. Certain people are particularly sensitive to them, people who have rather rigid or unstable arteries. You know there are those so sensitive in this way that a plunge into cold water will contract the arteries of the extremities until they become quite white and lifeless, and fainting spells may come on. They have learned that they cannot go in swimming where the water is under 70 degrees.
Elderly Suffer Much
Elderly people, because their arteries are no longer elastic, suffer much from the effects of cold and wet on winter streets. Heavy woolen socks and no constricting garters are worn by them.
Especially should diabetics avoid exposure of this kind. The diabetic's feet are a vulnerable point with him. He should always sit with the feet elevated at least on a footstool and avoid pressure on the backs of the legs on the edge of the chair. He should certainly avoid snowy streets.
Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.
The typical example of the effects of cold on the feet is chilblains. It results from a previous mild frost-bite and involves usually the heel or the toes. When again exposed to cold, the part becomes congested, and on being warmed there is itching, tingling and stinging, with swelling and redness. Sometimes it becomes covered with blisters; even ulceration may occur.
The best treatment of chilblains is prevention. When they once have occurred, they are certain to come on again with exposure. Warm stockings, loose shoes, no constricting garters will help protect. Mitchell, an Australian surgeon, treats chilblains on the principle of direct elastic pressure. Thin pieces of rubber, the weight of medium rubber gloves, are used in strips to cover the foot. The stocking is put on over them. He claims that the condition is relieved instantly.
If the chilblains has occurred, mild rubbing, bathing in cool water and alcohol are tried at first. Glycerin, either alone or in combination with boric acid, or tincture of iodine painted on the sore place, is of great value.
EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendenning can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Ways to Keep Your Feet Warm," "The Treatment of Diabetes," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER 46
A THOUGHTFUL man can face danger.
He can, and frequently does, defy death itself and think little of it. He can face death threatening himself, and he can even face it threatening members of his family, and rationalize it as something inevitable and not necessarily terrifying.
But no man, especially no thoughtful and honest man, can ever anticipate the shattering damage to his soul that comes when a woman he loves refuses his offer of marriage. Something in this is utterly devastating. It is worse than death's sorrow because nothing—not even Time—at the moment holds any promise of surcease. Man's emotions can sink no lower than to hear a beloved sweetheart say "No."
Sara Sue Davis did not love T. J. Sanders, and had the extremely difficult task of telling him so.
His proposal had been vaguely expected "sometime" in the future, for she was astute enough to know that he was sincerely attracted to her. And just as vaguely had she planned to do something about it before he actually came to the point, as she had adroitly sidetracked Worthington Gurley and made him infinitely happy. But she had simply procrastinated in trying to be rid of T. J.
"—and so, T. J., don't you see it now?" She was speaking ever so gently. "It is sweet of you to want me; I shall never forget the honor you have paid me. I think you are fine, really fine. You are still young, and you will go far in business, and somewhere else—with some girl whom you may not even know yet—you will find a happiness greater than you could find with me, and—"
"Never!" he avowed.
"—oh, but you will! I know it. You have just enjoyed friendship with me, and somehow imagine you love me. Perhaps you really do love me, at the moment, T. J. I almost wish that I loved you back! But—we cannot control those things. Can we? Can we, T. J.? They're done for us, not by us. I do not love you that way. I respect you. I hope to keep your friendship always. But T. J.—"
She paused to look into his eyes, shaking her head slowly, with tragic finality. The young sporting goods salesman, who liked to imagine that he was a stern man, had to swallow hard to avoid an emotional breakdown.
He had been holding one of her hands, and he slowly released it now. He looked away from her, a picture of abject misery. His shoulders sagged, and he seemed tired, infinitely sad. Finally he spoke, almost in a whisper.
"—There's someone else. Isn't there, Sara Sue?"
She nodded. Tears had begun to glisten on her own eyes now.
"—It's all right . . . all right," he declared, bravely. "Luck to . . . you both."
Without another word he arose and left her alone. He went onto the dance floor looking hastily here and there.
"—Seen Bob Towne?" he asked people.
Everybody had, but not in the last few minutes. He might be there or there, or over there. He goes everywhere, you know. He was teasing three freshman girls a minute ago. He was doing the Owl Hop. He was talking to Peaches Pomeroy. He was bevilizing one of the Mexican boys. He was talking to the orchestra leader. He was dancing with Frances Bowen. He was dancing with Marcia Gurley. He was—
But T. J. couldn't see him at the moment. He moved on and on, looking.
When T. J. left her, Sara Sue had welcomed the chance for a few minutes alone. She even went back behind some of the decorations, near an open dark window, where she could regain her composure before going back to the dance. She was crying softly, but she did not cry long. She wanted to think for a bit, calmly. She could still hear the dance music and the gaiety in the big ballroom, but it did not disturb her, and she was glad of the chance to rest briefly alone.

"—I hope I didn't hurt him," she mused. "I never thought he'd ask me tonight. I wish—I wish I could talk to Thornton."
She smiled wistfully at her own thoughts then. Strange, indeed, that she should have so romantic a proposal from one man she didn't want, and have none at all from the one she did want. She, Sara Sue Davis, who was supposed to be very attractive and who, people said, could have any man on the Rice campus. She had heard the talk about herself, inevitably. It had been flattering talk. Now, though, the situation became one of sardonic laughter. Fate again was playing tricks. Her chin trembled at the poignancy of it, and Sara Sue had to cry again.
It helps a great deal to cry. "Don't cry, little girl, don't cry," is age old and foolish advice. Let the little girl cry, be she eight or 80, for no other release is quite so comforting for a woman.
In five minutes Sara Sue felt better. Not that the deep pain in her heart was gone—no! Her love for Thornton Holgate was etched there forever, she knew. And would have to stay buried there in secrecy, always. But she could be superficially at ease now. She sought a light, and with lipstick and rouge and powder erased the outward evidence of stress. She took a deep breath or two at the window, and regained her traditional poise. She felt now that she could go calmly on through the remainder of the dance, then do whatever private "thinking" she felt inclined to when she was at home in there, too!
"—Sara Sue! It was T. J., back again. Here she is, Bob. Come on—in here where it's private."
He was leading Bob Towne, who was frankly curious. The intently serious expression on Sanders' face had told him this was no part of the evening's general gaiety and fun.
"—What's it all about?" Bob was repeating.
"—Listen and I'll tell you," T. J. began then. "I wanted you and Sara Sue both to hear. First, Bob, I want to congratulate you. You win, my friend."
He stuck out a hand which Bob automatically shook, but—"Win what?"
"—Win Sara Sue. I—I—well, the

CHAPTER 46

A THOUGHTFUL man can face danger.

He can, and frequently does, defy death itself and think little of it. He can face death threatening himself, and he can even face it threatening members of his family, and rationalize it as something inevitable and not necessarily terrifying.

But no man, especially no thoughtful and honest man, can ever anticipate the shattering damage to his soul that comes when a woman he loves refuses his offer of marriage. Something in this is utterly devastating. It is worse than death's sorrow because nothing—not even Time—at the moment holds any promise of surcease. Man's emotions can sink no lower than to hear a beloved sweetheart say "No."

Sara Sue Davis did not love T. J. Sanders, and had the extremely difficult task of telling him so.

His proposal had been vaguely expected "sometime" in the future, for she was astute enough to know that he was sincerely attracted to her. And just as vaguely had she planned to do something about it before he actually came to the point, as she had adroitly side-tracked Worthington Gurley and made him infinitely happy. But she had simply procrastinated in trying to be rid of T. J.

"—and so, T. J., don't you see it now?" She was speaking ever so gently. "I hope you don't want me; I shall never forget the honor you have paid me. I think you are fine, really fine. You are still young, and you will go far in business, and somewhere else—with some girl whom you may not even know yet—you will find a happiness greater than you could find with me, and—"

"—oh, but you will! I know it. You have just enjoyed friendship with me, and somehow imagine you love me. Perhaps you really do love me, at the moment, T. J. I almost wish that I loved you back! But—we cannot control those things. Can we? Can we, T. J.? They're done for us, not by us. I do not love you that way. I respect you. I hope to keep your friendship always. But T. J.—"

She paused to look into his eyes, shaking her head slowly, with tragic finality. The young sportsman, who had been so full of life, of good looks, of a manly charm, had become a shadow of his former self. He had been holding one of her hands, and he had slowly released it. He looked away from her, a picture of abject misery. His shoulders sagged, and he seemed tired, infinitely sad. Finally he spoke, almost in a whisper.

"There's someone else. Isn't there, Sara Sue?"

She nodded. Tears had begun to stream down her face.

"It's all right... all right," he declared, bravely. "Luck to you both... you both..."

Without another word he arose and left her alone. He went out the door looking hastily here and there.

"Seen Bob Towne?" he asked people.

Everybody had, but not in the last few minutes. He might be there or there, or over there. He goes everywhere, you know. He was teasing three freshman girls a minute ago. He was doing the Owl Hop. He was talking to Peaches Pomeroy. He was bevilizing one of the Mexican boys. He was talking to the orchestra leader. He was dancing with Frances Bowen. He was dancing with Marcia Gurley. He was—

But T. J. couldn't see him at the moment. He moved on and on, looking.

When T. J. left her, Sara Sue had welcomed the chance for a few minutes alone. She even went back behind some of the decorations, near an open dark window, where she could regain her composure before going back to the dance.

She was crying softly, but she did not cry long. She wanted to think for a bit, calmly. She could still

He stuck out a hand which Bob automatically shook.

hear the dance music and the gaiety in the big ballroom, but it did not disturb her, and she was glad of the chance to rest briefly alone.

"I hope I didn't hurt him," she mused. "I never thought he'd ask me tonight. I wish—I wish I could talk to Thornton."

She smiled wilyly at her own thoughts then. Strange, indeed, that she should have so romantic a proposal from one man she didn't want, and have none at all from the one she did want. She, Sara Sue Davis, who was supposed to be very attractive and who, people said, could have any man on the dance floor, she had heard the talk about herself, inevitably. It had been flattery talk. Now, though, the situation became one of sardonic laughter. Fate again was playing tricks. Her chin trembled at the poignancy of it, and Sara Sue had to cry again.

It helps a great deal to cry. "Don't cry, little girl, don't cry," is age old and foolish advice. Let the little girl cry, be she eight or 80, for no other release is quite so comforting for a woman.

In five minutes Sara Sue felt better. Not that the deep pain in her heart was gone—no! Her love for Thornton Holgate was etched there forever, she knew. And would have to stay buried there in secrecy, always. But she could be superficially at ease now. She sought a light, and with lipstick and rouge and powder erased the outward evidence of stress. She took a deep breath or two at the window, and regained her traditional poise. She felt now that she could go calmly on through the remainder of the dance, then do whatever private "thinking" she felt inclined to when she was at home in there, too.

"Sara Sue! It was T. J., back again. 'Here she is, Bob. Come on—in here where it's private.'"

He was leading Bob Towne, who was frankly curious. The intently serious expression on Sanders' face had told him this was no part of the evening's general gaiety and fun.

"What's it all about?" Bob was repeating.

"Listen and I'll tell you," T. J. began then. "I wanted you and Sara Sue both to hear. First, Bob, I want to congratulate you. You win, my friend."

He stuck out a hand which Bob automatically shook, but—"Win what?"

"Win Sara Sue. I—I—well, the truth is, Towne, I'm licked. It's no secret that we've both been courting her. I did everything I could, and I—well, we understand each other thoroughly now. I know where I get off. And I want both of you to know that there's no hard feelings. I wanted to tell you both. You have a swell girl. Congratulations again."

Bob and Sara Sue were too startled to s, eak, so T. J. went on.

"And another thing, Towne—I had planned to do this in student assembly next week. My boss said it was the proper place. Of course, we'll do it officially there, too, but this is more important now. I can announce now that you have been awarded the Columbian Sporting Goods prize. It won't be the thousand dollars we announced at first, but I imagine it'll be enough for a short honeymoon, anyway. Matter of fact—" T. J. forced a friendly grin at them—"it will be more."

The Columbian officials agreed a month ago to raise it to fifteen hundred, if our sales passed a certain quota in the southwest this fall. The sales went higher. They figure your endorsement of our line is worth more than the thousand. So you get five hundred bucks extra. I hope you buy Sara Sue something extra-special with it. Well, good luck."

With just that abruptness he turned and went away.

Bob and Sara Sue hadn't had a chance to interrupt him, to thank him, to say anything at all. Astonishment controlled them until he was out of sight and out of hearing.

"Well, I'll be dog-goned da—"

Bob almost swore, in his recovering. Suddenly the realization of it all swept over him. His face brightened. He turned to Sara Sue.

"Did you hear him? Did you?"

Sara Sue swallowed.

"Fifteen hundred, Sara Sue! And—say, you turned him down? He proposed, and you turned him down? Say—oh, gee! Honey, it's wonderful—ee-YOW!"

Probably Bob Towne will holler loudly, or yodel or give a rebel yell if and when Saint Peter beckons him to enter the Golden Gates. No other way can such an ebullient young man express elation.

He grabbed her by both arms and began dancing a jig with her, trying to kiss her at the same time.

"Stop it, Bob!" she demanded. "Stop it, I tell you, and listen to me!"

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up in fine humor and unusual peace of mind even though what seemed to be most of the night had been devoted to an experience at sea, one of being cast upon an island with only oysters as a source of food supply, and then an attempt to swim 1,700 mile back to the American mainland. Maybe the fact that I had been Bill Radcliff's guest at a Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood oyster supper in the early evening prompted the dream, for we had oysters raw, oysters escalloped and oysters stewed. And all good, very good, and I ate more than my share.

Good humor and peace of mind also were induced by that thinking. Any and all fears as to the future of America were dispelled. This nation has nothing to fear so long as we have men such as assembled at that Methodist church, God fearing men, men with a common interest in their community and nation, intelligent men, hard working men, men who set such fine examples that the youngsters enjoy following them. There were Thomas Carter, Virgil Mossbarger and S. I. Pickel, all 84 years of age, and there also were youngsters 16 or 17, with some 75 others of all ages between the youngest and oldest.

This is America. At that Brotherhood session in the Methodist church were assembled not only Methodists, but Catholics, Presbyterians, Lutherans, Baptists and others, all members of the organization. And the chairman of the next meeting is a Catholic. Where else meet in America.

Dr. Marshall, head of the department of speech at Ohio Wesleyan, was the speaker of the evening, but I heard too little of his talk. I was entirely too engaged in drinking my fill again of pride in citizenship and confidence of the future. Those of you needing restored confidence should attend the next Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood meeting. And if you don't feel amply repaid for the effort then you are beyond all hope.

Ed Rector heads the organization. He met me at the door and introduced me to C. F. Puffinbarger, who last Sunday was elected superintendent of the Sunday school for the 57th time. Yes, 57th time. There, I think, is a world record. It is easily understood, too, when one meets that fine old churchman. I met, among others, John Carter, J. W. Haughn, S. R. Tener, H. W. Campbell and T. E. Carmean, all charter members of the Brotherhood, and men who in the last 25 years have not missed more than a dozen Brotherhood meetings.

Ed Wallace was there. He attends most of the sessions, for that is his native district. He attended school right across the road from the church and moved away 38 years ago. He goes back at every opportunity, and I can understand that, too. He has promised to take me back with him the next time he goes and I hope he does not forget.

This America of ours is a grand and glorious country peopled with many grand folk. After leaving that meeting I think that my taxes could have been doubled with little complaint from me.

Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, will send its contribution to the state project in Cleveland, known as the "Boy Scout Executive Fund", this month, announcement being made at the annual Christmas session, Tuesday, at the home of Mrs. George Roth, N. Scioto street.

The D. A. R. works toward the elimination of conditions by which crime is fostered and on which crime thrives. The contribution is to aid in a drive to win aliens born within our borders and is one way of making worthwhile citizens for the future.

Mrs. Bryce Briggs presided at the meeting and Mrs. Charles Gerhardt, chaplain, read the text for December from Mark 21st chapter and 21st verse. She spoke of our faith in God, our faith in each other and our faith in ourselves as the basis for the study of the coming year.

It was decided during the business session to give a Christmas donation for the Circleville public school milk fund.

Miss Florence Dutton, in charge of the program for the afternoon, presented Mrs. G. D. McDowell who read, "The Angel and the Shepherd", by Lew Wallace, for the first number. Mrs. C. C. Watts then read an original story, "A Walt in the Bus Station". Mrs. W. W. Robinson read a number of poems of her own composition. They were "My Idea of Poetry", a ballad "Beauty Alone"; "Through the Seasons", a Spring poem; "Ringgold Hill"; "Evening Wind"; "Winter Woods"; "Winter Brooks"; a Christmas group, "Perfection"; "The Cradle" and "The Presence". These poems displayed a fine natural talent, with a keen sense of the beauties of nature.

PRIME MINISTER RAPS GERMANS IN HEATED TALK

Fuehrer's Aides Refuse To Attend Event Addressed By Chamberlain

(Continued from Page One) would result in Germany getting orders abroad for export goods. It seemed hardly likely that any plans which required the approval of the government, and of the British people, would be forwarded by banquet incident.

Many Facts Shown Whatever the facts, it was indicated that Chamberlain's speech, and the boycott, had served to show first the smoldering resentment in Great Britain against the Munich "surrender" to Germany over Czechoslovakia, secondly the increasing sentiment in favor of absolute cooperation with France and thirdly the magnitude of the prime minister's self appointed task—one to which he rededicated himself in his speech—of seeking friendship with totalitarian nations.

When Chamberlain made his remarks about German newspapers, his auditors stood and cheered him for four minutes.

There was applause hardly less impressive when he said at another point:

"Our relations with France are so close as to pass beyond here legal obligations."

Those few words were all that were needed to explain a statement which Chamberlain had made on British-French relations in the house of commons, to the perturbation of his hearers and the jubilation of Italian Fascists.

Chamberlain had been asked in commons whether Britain was bound to aid France in any attack by Italy. He had replied that Britain was under no legal obligation to do so.

Italy Rejoicing

Even as he spoke last night Italian Fascists were rejoicing, believing that it meant Britain would not side with France against the new Italian agitation for surrender of French territory.

As regards Italy, there was another angle to last night's banquet. It was reported that the Germans telephoned the Italian embassy to inform the Italians due to attend to the banquet that there was a boycott, and tacitly inviting the Italians to join it as a sign of the strength of the Berlin-Rome diplomatic axis. The Italians attended the dinner.

Recognizing the importance which its boycott had assumed, the German embassy issued an official statement on it:

"The viewpoint of the German embassy is that it was a matter of regret that members of the embassy were unable to attend the dinner. But it should be borne in mind that German journalists in London, as members of the Foreign Press association, were themselves associated with the invitations issued to guests of the association. That being so, it was felt an embarrassing situation might arise if in the course of the evening, mention was made of subjects entailing criticism of German affairs."

Drawings Displeasing It was learned that the German ambassador disliked, for one thing, caricatures printed on the menu of the dinner. One German newspaper man said:

"The ambassador was most annoyed. The menu showed Field Marshal Hermann Goering (Nazi No. 2) as a huntsman, wearing an alpine hat, with a rifle slung over his shoulder and a bird hanging by a string from his left hand. He looked like a balloon. He was tremendous."

"Nor was the cartoon of Dr. Paul Goebbels (Nazi No. 3) good. Goebbels was shown as a waiter. Incidentally, the cartoons showed Benito Mussolini as toastmaster, giving the Fascist salute, and Premier Edouard Daladier of France as a waiter."

The boycott story was published by British newspapers as a sensation of the first rank, and it brought repercussions which the Germans may not have anticipated.

For one thing, The Times, regarded as reflecting in many cases the viewpoint of the government,

WARREN COUNTY JURORS PROBING ARMED ROBBERS

LEBANON, Dec. 14—(UP)—The Warren county grand jury convened in special session here today to consider charges of kidnapping and armed robbery against two men and two women held in the abduction of Corporal Parker W. Powell of the Ohio highway patrol last Thursday.

The suspects, registered as David Cross, 29, Hamilton, Pa.; Coy Russell, 29, of Houston, Tex.; Marie Hatfield, 25, of Ashland, Ky., and Naomi Hayes, 25, of Hayti, Mo., were held in jail under heavy bond.

The quartet pleaded guilty at a preliminary hearing and were said to have confessed a trail of banditry from Texas to Ohio. The women waived preliminary hearing.

The quartet was captured last Thursday night after a five-hour man hunt by the Ohio state patrol and county officers.

criticized the Nazi administration with heat.

"It would be useless to make even a protest against things happening in Germany without a sense that the protest is in some degree an appeal to the abiding conscience of the German people against the dark deeds being done in their name by the power holding authority at the moment," said The Times—another reference to the possibly transitory nature of Nazi ascendancy.

"It is not the foundations of power in a foreign country but the way in which the power is wielded that we can profitably criticize. . . ."

"The speech was sufficient to keep away German guests; indeed, they might have found a certain embarrassment at the prolonged applause which greeted Mr. Chamberlain's reproach to the German press and his tribute to his old chief."

The view of some other news papers was shown by the headline blazoned across the first page of The Daily Express:

"German Ambassador Refuses to Dine With Premier." Chamberlain in his speech promised to continue peace efforts and at the same time to proceed with the rearmament program.

SOVIET BUREAU OFFICER, AGENT FOR NAVY HELD

Confidential U. S. Defense Plans Given To Russia, Officials Charge

The federal agents would say only that Salich was accused of supplying Gorin with confidential national defense plans and naval information concerning Japanese espionage in this country.

The specific charge was violation of title 50, section 32, of the federal code, by communicating and transmitting to agents of a foreign government documents, writings, instruments and information relating to United States national defense.

Penalty is Prison Term Penalty in war time is death; in peace, a maximum of 25 years in prison.

The men were both arrested Monday night and were questioned all night. They were held at county jail under $25,000 bail each.

George Cantillon, a professional bondsman, said he had received a call from New York, inquiring as to the costs of buying bonds that would free both men. The caller did not identify himself, and, when informed the premium of bail bonds was 10 percent of their value, he promised to call later.

When arraigned, U. S. Commissioner David B. Head set Dec. 24 for a hearing for both, but it was said that federal grand jury action would be taken before then.

Benjamin Harrison, U. S. attorney, refused to comment, saying that the case was a matter for the state department to discuss if it was to be discussed.

Salich was said to have had access to the U. S. naval data on warships, armaments and records of fleet maneuvers, vital information in this government's defense plans.

He was also believed to have been informed as to what this government had learned of mysterious Japanese naval base preparations, mobilization plans and data on the number and power of their fighting ships secrets that all governments would like to get.

Inasmuch as Gorin, a former official in the Soviet consulate here, is a Russian citizen, it was believed that authorities feared he might attempt to flee the country when his bail was furnished.

Such a flight, it was recalled, hindered government prosecutors in a recent New York spy case when suspected German officials sought refuge in their own country before they could be brought to trial. They refused to return and only minor figures in the government's case were prosecuted.

The fact that the arrest of the Russians was kept a secret was believed to indicate the importance the government attached to their cases. Department of Justice officials were given unusually strict orders to remain silent.

Michael Whalen, Lynn Bari and Marvin Stephens bring about the beautiful animal's comeback with Henry Armetta and his Gambini family lending their enthusiastic assistance.

The thrill of a big day at the races, the roar of the crowd, and driving finish down the stretch and the human touches supplied by the Gambinis plus the boundless love of a man and his girl make "Speed To Burn" all that is grand in romance and racing.

AT THE CLIFTONA

"The Citadel" as a novel ranks among the best-sellers in America and abroad, although it was published a year ago. Dr. Cronin, the author, has admitted that when he drew his word picture of the heroic young surgeon he saw Robert Donat in the role.

Here is a moving drama of life in the mines where a struggling young physician risks his life to save trapped workmen in the pit. He meets a girl and marries her. They move into the city where he develops a paying practice in the social set but learns to abandon the high ideals with which he started out.

But a bad operation restores him to his senses. With the help of his bride and a group of fellow doctors he makes a come-back and we see the drama of victory over big odds—the triumph of love and faith.

"The Citadel" will be shown at the Cliftona Theatre tonight and Thursday. You and every member of your family will want to see this great picture.

AT THE CIRCLE

Priscilla Lane is not a "dese-dem-and-dose" person.

She is a college graduate and that is why she enjoyed herself immensely toying with the King's English while she was working in "Cowboy from Brooklyn," the Warner Bros. musical farce opening tomorrow at the Circle Theatre.

She said "ain't" dropped "g's," split infinitives and violated all rules of grammar with reckless abandon.

In the Warner Bros. musical comedy she portrays a girl who operates a western dude ranch and she exaggerates the western atmosphere for the benefit of the guests. She forces her father to walk bowlegged, though he has ridden for years without bowing his legs, and to roll his own cigarettes though he prefers "tailor-mades," so the guests will feel sure he is a real cowboy.

To complete the illusion for the guests who want to know they are amongst real westerners, Priscilla talks and makes everybody else on the ranch talk like westerners are supposed to.

PRIME MINISTER RAPS GERMANS IN HEATED TALK

would result in Germany getting orders abroad for export goods.

It seemed hardly likely that any plans which required the approval of the government, and of the British people, would be forwarded by banquet incident.

Many Facts Shown

Whatever the facts, it was indicated that Chamberlain's speech, and the boycott, had served to show first the smouldering resentment in Great Britain against the Munich "surrender" to Germany over Czechoslovakia, secondly the increasing sentiment in favor of absolute cooperation with France and thirdly the magnitude of the prime minister's self appointed task—one to which he rededicated himself in his speech—of seeking friendship with totalitarian nations.

When Chamberlain made his remarks about German newspapers, his auditors stood and cheered him for four minutes.

There was applause hardly less impressive when he said at another point:

"Our relations with France are so close as to pass beyond here legal obligations."

Those few words were all that were needed to explain a statement which Chamberlain had made on British-French relations in the house of commons, to the perturbation of his hearers and the jubilation of Italian Fascists.

Chamberlain had been asked in commons whether Britain was bound to aid France in any attack by Italy. He had replied that Britain was under no legal obligation to do so.

Italy Rejoicing

Even as he spoke last night Italian Fascists were rejoicing, believing that it meant Britain would not side with France against the new Italian agitation for surrender of French territory.

As regards Italy, there was another angle to last night's banquet. It was reported that the Germans telephoned the Italian embassy to inform the Italians due to attend to the banquet that there was a boycott, and tacitly inviting the Italians to join it as a sign of the strength of the Berlin-Rome diplomatic axis. The Italians attended the dinner.

Recognizing the importance which its boycott had assumed, the German embassy issued an official statement on it:

"The viewpoint of the German embassy is that it was a matter of regret that members of the embassy were unable to attend the dinner. But it should be borne in mind that German journalists in London, as members of the Foreign Press association, were themselves associated with the invitations issued to guests of the association. That being so, it was felt an embarrassing situation might arise if in the course of the evening, mention was made of subjects entailing criticism of German affairs."

Drawings Displeasing

It was learned that the German ambassador disliked, for one thing, caricatures printed on the menu of the dinner. One German newspaper man said:

"The ambassador was most annoyed. The menu showed Field Marshal Hermann Goering (Nazi No. 2) as a huntsman, wearing an alpine hat, with a rifle slung over his shoulder and a bird hanging by a string from his left hand. He looked like a balloon. He was tremendous."

"Nor was the cartoon of Dr. Paul Goebbels (Nazi No. 3) good. Goebbels was shown as a waiter. Incidentally, the cartoons showed Benito Mussolini as toast-master, giving the Fascist salute, and Premier Edouard Daladier of France as a waiter."

The boycott story was published by British newspapers as a sensation of the first rank, and it brought repercussions which the Germans may not have anticipated.

For one thing, The Times, regarded as reflecting in many cases the viewpoint of the government,

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(UP)—The scene of the greatest sports upset of 1938, in the opinion of sports editors across the country, was a stadium in Pittsburgh, where 61,000 persons peered through the dusk of Nov. 5 and read on the score-board—

Carnegie Tech, 20; Pittsburgh, 10.

They could hardly believe their eyes, and next day the talk wherever sports fans gathered was about how Carnegie Tech had turned the trick against a powerful Pittsburgh team that had been undefeated in its previous 22 games.

There was more division of opinion over the greatest upset of the year than there was over any other question asked of sports writers in the United Press' annual year-end poll. But when the ballots were counted, the results were:

Carnegie Tech's victory over Pitt . . . 23 percent of the votes cast.

Navy's victory in the Poughkeepsie regatta . . . 14 percent. Southern California's defeat of the Notre Dame football team . . . 13 percent.

The collapse of the Pittsburgh Pirates which enabled the Chicago Cubs to win the National league pennant . . . 11 percent.

The fact that Joe Louis knocked out Max Schmeling in one round 9 percent.

Solly Krieger's victory over Al Hostak which brought Krieger recognition from the National Boxing association as middle-weight champion . . . 7 percent.

Seabiscuit's triumph over War Admiral in their match race at Pimlico . . . 6 percent.

OHIO U'S SOPH FIVE IN 55 TO 28 WIN IN OPENER

COLUMBUS, Dec. 14—(UP)—That loud noise from the vicinity of Athens today was an echo of the explosive debut of the current Ohio U. basketball team which swamped Marietta, 55 to 28, last night in its first game under the tutelage of Bill Trautwein, former Wittenberg court star.

Trautwein sent an all-sophomore lineup on the floor to start the game and the young Bobcats lost no time in making good. Ohio U. held a 35 to 11 margin at half-time. Frank Baumholtz, sophomore from Midvale high school, gathered in the scoring honors with 19 points in the 25 minutes he played.

"Stretch" Grothaus, only returning letterwinner, picked up 14 points after entering the contest midway in the first half.

On other Ohio court fronts, Beiloit college from Wisconsin defeated two straight over Ohio quints, routing Kenyon 57 to 35. Wittenberg, the Ohio conference champs, duplicated the feat on a Pennsylvania visit when they knocked off Scranton, 43 to 41, after beating Juniata the night before.

Ohio Northern nipped Heidelberg, 35 to 31, in an Ohio conference game, second of the season. Denison enters competition tonight, favored to take Kenyon in an Ohio league tilt while eight interstate battles top the rest of the program; Michigan Normal at Bowling Green; Kentucky Wesleyan at Miami; Western State Teachers of Michigan at Ohio Wesleyan; Cincinnati versus Wayne U. at Chicago; Holbrook at Bethany, W. Va.; John Carroll at Niagara; Wittenberg at Muhlenberg and Alma, Mich., at De Sales in Toledo.

TWO MEN QUESTIONED IN THEFT OF ANGLE IRONS

Police Chief William McCrady received a possible clue, Wednesday, in the theft of about 400 pounds of angle irons from the Pennsylvania railroad in Circleville last November 17.

The chief announced receipt of a letter from a Norfolk & Western railroad detective at Portsmouth saying that two men had been arrested in the theft of property from their lines. Some angle irons were recovered, the chief said. He referred the report to Pennsylvania railroad officials.

Shackow was arrested on Oct. 16 at Fort Randolph while taking photographs. Arrested with him were three German companions, Ingeborg Gutmann, a woman; Gisbert Groos and Edward Robert Kuhrig.

Gutmann and Shackow were employees of the Hapag Lloyd line in Cristobal.

COLUMBUS MAN WINS SUIT FOR $1,680 FROM ESTATE

Verdict for $1,680, the amount asked by Joseph G. Martin, 937 Kelson avenue, Columbus, in his suit against Miss Mary Ebert, Circleville, as executrix of the estate of Miss Laura Grace Lane, was returned Wednesday by a Common Pleas court jury.

Mr. Martin asked the amount for the care of Miss Lane for 186 weeks at $10 a week. The case was submitted to the jury at 9:50 a. m. and a verdict returned about 10:30. All signed the verdict Joseph Wolfe, Circleville, was foreman.

GIANTS SEEKING WHIZZER; WOULD BUY HIS CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Dec. 14—(UP)—The New York Giants, world professional football champions, are trying to sign "Whizzer" White, former all-American quarterback from Colorado, it was reported today.

White played this season for the Pittsburgh Pirates and has said he will go to Oxford next year as a Rhodes Scholar. The Giants, it was understood, are trying to get him to change his mind. They have offered to buy his contract from Pittsburgh and also pay him the same amount, $15,000, he received.

YELLOW BALL WINS FAVOR; AMERICAN LEAGUE TO PLAY NIGHT GAMES

PLAYER LIMIT SQUABBLE MAY BE DEVELOPED

Griffith's "Single Farm" Idea Dropped; Ruppert Absent

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Some night baseball will be played in the American league next season, a yellow ball probably will be used by the National league on occasions and both leagues are quite likely to use a standard ball, as a result of first-day sentiment at the major leagues annual meetings.

Permission for Cleveland and Philadelphia each to play seven night games was expected to be granted by the American league at its meeting today. After league magnates had discussed night baseball President Will Harridge said, "We believe night baseball is here to stay and we will draw up a resolution covering the administration of games at night. Every indication is that it will pass."

The National league voted to allow the yellow ball, tried out with success in an experimental game between the Dodgers and Cardinals last year, to be used next season under certain circumstances and with the mutual consent of both clubs.

Ball Has Advantages
"We feel that the yellow ball has certain virtues and can be used to advantage when the back-ground is bad," said Erick. "On certain days when the weather is hot and the fans in the bleachers are in their shirt sleeves, the yellow ball can be seen more easily."

The National league voted to continue to use its present baseball, with the slightly thicker cover and the raised seam, and the American league indicated it was receptive toward agreeing on a uniform ball. There was every indication that the two leagues would adopt a standard ball at their joint session before Commissioner K. M. Landis tomorrow. If adoption of the yellow ball by the National league proves a bone of contention in the joint session, President Erick said it would be given up if necessary to reach an inter-circuit agreement on a uniform ball.

While the two leagues were close to a compromise on the baseball they do not see eye to eye on the player limit. The National league voted to increase the player limit from 25 to 26 but the American league voted to retain the 25-player limit and add a 60-day disability clause on which two players may be placed. A uniform agreement on the player limit will be reached at tomorrow's joint session.

Clark Griffith's far-reaching proposal to limit major league clubs to one minor league franchise in each classification was withdrawn because of the absence of Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankees' owner who is ill. The Yankees, among others, own more than one club in each classification and last Fall had their two AA clubs, Newark of the International league and Kansas City of the American association, playing for the "Little World Series" title.

Col. Ruppert's proposal to pay the players on an eight month basis was rejected by the American league magnates.

Harridge Renamed
Will Harridge, who has been connected with the American league since 1910 and served as president for the last eight years, was re-elected for a 10-year term. Brooklyn and the Boston Bees made the two most active clubs in the player marts. The Dodgers traded pitcher Fred Frankhouse to the Bees last night for third baseman Joe Stripp, returning other players to clubs with which they formerly played. Previously Brooklyn had swapped first baseman Buddy Hassett and outfielder Tommy Outlaw, last year with Syracuse, to the Bees for pitcher Ira Hutchinson and outfielder Gene Moore. The Dodgers obtained Outlaw from the Cardinals, who had drafted him.

Another Bees' deal on the first day would send first baseman Albert Fletcher and catcher Ray Mueller to Pittsburgh in exchange for first baseman Gus Suhr and catcher Al Todd.

American League trading temporarily was at a standstill. The Indians and Tigers who came here to shake up their clubs haven't been able to get together themselves or to get past the negotiation stage with any other clubs.

Amanda's eagles, victors over Circleville, Kingston, and Milletsport, Tuesday night added another major victim, the Lancaster St. Mary's varsity. The game, ending 20-16, was played on the Lancaster court, the Irish being unable to cope with the brilliant ball hawking ability of the Amanda youths.

The Irish took a short lead of 2-2, which they held at the quarter, but found the contest led at 5-all at halftime. The Amanda boys opened up in the third period to gain a 14-11 advantage as the final period began. Amanda outscored St. Mary's by a single counter in the last session.

The work of Hiett, Amanda's brilliant guard, did most of the damage to the home team. Hiett hit the hoop five times from the court and dropped two more counters from the charity line.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(UP)—The "million dollar baby" promoters have been seeking for three years—a "white hope" capable of standing toe-to-toe with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis—may walk out of Madison Square Garden late Friday night.

Quarterback Bob Spangler was the sensation of a short offensive scrimmage that ended the spectacular workout. Spangler led an attack against the unbeaten freshman team for a touchdown, reeled off an 84-yard run for another and caught a pass from Eric Tipton for a third.

The team also had a long session in one of Duke's strongest departments—kicking—with Tipton doing the booting.

SOLOMON NOT INTERESTED?

Backers Declare He Is The Logical Successor For Roosevelt

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 14 (UP)—Despite Sen. Bennett Champ Clark's insistence that he is not "interested" in the 1940 Democratic Presidential nomination, his home-state friends are going ahead with plans to make him the standard-bearer.

Clark-for-President clubs have been organized in St. Louis, Kansas City and several outstate cities, while many Democratic newspapers in the state point to him editorially as the Democratic nominee.

Speech Called Conservative
Clark struck a middle-of-the-road attitude, upholding what he considered meritorious New Deal measures and criticizing others. In a speech before the Associated Industries of Oklahoma, Clark told what many observers said was "definite conservative stand."

In that address he took issue with some of the labor policies of the Roosevelt administration called for an end of "needless spending," and decried "unnecessary interference with business." Taking cognizance of the defeat of many New Deal Democrats at Progressive candidates in November, Clark's backers in Missouri argue he is the "logical" successor to Mr. Roosevelt. They point to the senator's support of many New Deal measures—a stand that does not place him definitely in the anti-Roosevelt ranks.

On the other hand, they see in his fight against the Supreme Court bill and his opposition to the old NRA, a rallying point for conservatives. Clark's foes in Missouri insist that he is neither liberal nor conservative, pro-New Deal nor anti-administration. Clark has been branded an "opportunist" by some ardent Missouri New Dealers.

Most observers in Missouri, however, believe Clark leans toward the conservative element. Vice President John N. Garner publicly has praised Clark, while Sen. Edward R. Burke, D., Neb., a leading anti-New Dealer, on a visit to St. Louis named Clark as one of his three choices for the 1940 nomination. The others were Garner and Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont.

CLARK IN VAN AS MISSOURI'S FAVORITE SON

SOLON NOT INTERESTED?

Backers Declare He Is The Logical Successor For Roosevelt

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 14 (UP)—Despite Sen. Bennett Champ Clark's insistence that he is not "interested" in the 1940 Democratic Presidential nomination, his home-state friends are going ahead with plans to make him the standard-bearer.

Clark-for-President clubs have been organized in St. Louis, Kansas City and several outstate cities, while many Democratic newspapers in the state point to him editorially as the Democratic nominee.

Speech Called Conservative

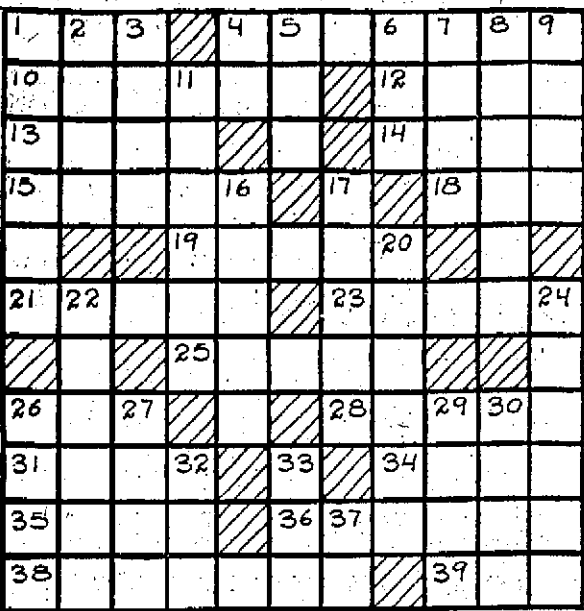

Clark struck a middle-of-the-road attitude, upholding what he considered meritorious New Deal measures and criticizing others. In a speech before the Associated Industries of Oklahoma, Clark took what many observers said was a "definite conservative stand."

In that address he took issue with some of the labor policies of the Roosevelt administration called for an end of "needless spending," and declared "unnecessary interference with business." Taking cognizance of the defeat of many New Deal Democrats in November, Clark's backers in Missouri argue he is the "logical" successor to Mr. Roosevelt. They point to the senator's support of many New Deal measures—a stand that does not place him definitely in the anti-Roosevelt ranks.

On the other hand, they see in his fight against the Supreme Court bill and his opposition to the old NRA, a rallying point for conservatives.

Clark's foes in Missouri insist that he is neither liberal nor conservative, pro-New Deal nor anti-administration. Clark has been branded an "opportunist" by some ardent Missouri New Dealers.

Merchandise to be auctioned in the Buck Passing campaign, being conducted by Circleville merchants for the Christmas shopping season, will be placed on display in the Crist building on N. Court street formerly occupied by the J. C. Penney Co. Store.

Herman Hill, president of the Retail Merchants association, said Wednesday that the use of the show windows had been donated by J. Wallace Crist, The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company will provide lights.

Mr. Hill said the association hopes to have the display completed by Thursday night. "We will have a splendid display of merchandise and it may be impossible to get it all in the windows," he said. "We have more than we expected when the campaign was opened."

Auction To Be Dec. 23

The merchandise will be auctioned on Dec. 23 at 9 p. m. in Memorial hall. Bucks are being issued by Circleville merchants for purchases or payment of back bills. Participating stores have donated the merchandise to be auctioned. The persons with the most bucks will be able to "buy" the auctioned merchandise.

Gable Seeks Divorce; To Wed Carole Lombard?

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—(UP)—Clark Gable asked his second wife, who is 11 years older than he is, for a divorce today and the movie colony believed that he would marry Carole Lombard by February.

The film lover last night made the long-expected announcement that he was asking his freedom from Mrs. Rhea Gable, who was a well-to-do Texas widow when he married her. They have been estranged three years.

Gable, ever taciturn about his private affairs, said only:

"Yes, I intend to ask Mrs. Gable for a divorce."

He said nothing about Miss Lombard, and no comment was forthcoming from her. But the movie colony took it for granted that their marriage would follow at once when Mrs. Gable gets a divorce.

It was also taken for granted that Mrs. Gable would immediately re-sue, probably in Nevada where it takes only six weeks.

Her suit is expected to follow settlement of differences over their financial affairs which were to be heard by a Los Angeles court today. They were married in 1931, and parted in 1935, when Gable said: "Mrs. Gable and I have separated and a property settlement has been reached. Any statement on a divorces must come from Mrs. Gable."

There the matter rested for three years, Gable supposedly waiting for his wife to act, but Mrs. Gable declining to file suit without a formal request from her handsome husband. Why she insisted on this was not known. Her friends did not believe she hoped for a reconciliation.

Both in Court

When the property settlement came up in court last week and was continued, some thought the Gables were trying to mend their estrangement. But Gable indicated that he was in court merely to legalize the property division. Mrs. Gable's reply to this was that she did not wish to be bound by the terms. She disagreed over amounts to be paid by her husband and over the manner in which they were to be paid.

Gable's first wife, Mrs. Josephine Dillon Gable, a pretty teacher of dramatics, divorced him a year after he signed his first major film contract. She was given credit for discovering him, a telephone line-man "trouble-shooter," and coaching him along his road to fame in the movies.

She and the second Mrs. Gable once squabbled over the right to use "Mrs. Clark Gable" on their calling cards. The second wife threatened to sue. But when Mrs. Gable No. 1 refused to drop the name the argument ceased.

Gable's romance with Miss Lombard began a few months after his separation. It has since become one of Hollywood's most publicized. Both steadfastly refused to comment on it.

They had known each other on the film lots for years. Miss Lombard was once a Mack Sennett bathing beauty and is now one of the highest paid comedienne in the movies.

Gable Seeks Divorce; To Wed Carole Lombard?

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14—(UP)—Clark Gable asked his second wife, who is 11 years older than he is, for a divorce today and the movie colony believed that he would marry Carole Lombard by February.

The film lover last night made the long-expected announcement that he was asking his freedom from Mrs. Rhea Gable, who was a well-to-do Texas widow when he married her. They have been estranged three years.

Gable, ever taciturn about his private affairs, said only: "Yes, I intend to ask Mrs. Gable for a divorce."

He said nothing about Miss Lombard, and no comment was forthcoming from her. But the movie colony took it for granted that their marriage would follow at once when Mrs. Gable gets a divorce.

It was also taken for granted that Mrs. Gable would immediately sue, probably in Nevada where it takes only six weeks.

Her suit is expected to follow settlement of differences over their financial affairs which were to be heard by a Los Angeles court today. They were married in 1931, and parted in 1935, when Gable said: "Mrs. Gable and I have separated and a property settlement has been reached. Any statement on a divorce must come from Mrs. Gable."

There the matter rested for three years, Gable supposedly waiting for his wife to act, but Mrs. Gable declining to file suit without a formal request from her handsome husband. Why she insisted on this was not known. Her friends did not believe she hoped for a reconciliation.

Both in Court
When the property settlement came up in court last week and was continued, some thought the Gables were trying to mend their estrangement. But Gable indicated that he was in court merely to legalize the property division. Mrs. Gable's reply to this was that she did not wish to be bound by the terms. She disagreed over amounts to be paid by her husband and over the manner in which they were to be paid.

Gable's first wife, Mrs. Josephine Dillon Gable, a pretty teacher of dramatics, divorced him a year after he signed his first major film contract. She was given credit for discovering him, a telephone lineman "trouble-shooter," and coaching him along his road to fame in the movies.

She and the second Mrs. Gable once squabbled over the right to use "Mrs. Clark Gable" on their calling cards. The second wife threatened to sue. But when Mrs. Gable No. 1 refused to drop the name the argument ceased.

Gable's romance with Miss Lombard began a few months after his separation. It has since become one of Hollywood's most publicized. Both steadfastly refused to comment on it.

They had known each other on the film lots for years. Miss Lombard was once a Mack Sennett bathing beauty and is now one of the highest paid comedienne in the movies.

PARIS, Dec. 15.—(UP)—France pushed plans for tightening military and sentimental ties with her territories in the Mediterranean today in preparation for an eventual showdown with Italy.

Following official declarations that France would fight — with British support — for every inch of her territory, the government was bolstering the French colonial position generally.

1. Corsican war veterans and government officials joined with patriotic groups to organize a "national holiday" coincident with the visit of Premier Edouard Daladier to Corsica early in January. The purpose will be to affirm attachment to France and oppose Italian claims for the island.

2. Indications that France was preparing to combat German claims to her pre-war colonies were seen in the arrival of Governor Montagnon, French resident commissioner of Togoland, to Paris to consult government officials regarding the future of that former German colony.

STATE TRIBUNAL UPHOLDS CRIME EXPERT'S OUSTER

COLUMBUS, Dec. 15.—(UP)—The state supreme court today had sustained authority of State Welfare Director Margaret Allman to suspend Howard G. Robinson, of Newark, from his former position as superintendent of the bureau of criminal identification and investigation at the London prison farm.

Mrs. Allman ordered the suspension for "disciplinary" purposes. Robinson filed a mandamus action in the court of appeals which ruled against the director. The supreme court, however, reversed the lower court decision.

Robinson was suspended as of Nov. 17, 1937 and he was ordered removed from his post on Dec. 11, 1937. Although the suit was pending in the courts he resigned Jan. 31, 1938.

Oakley Spaght, assistant state welfare director, said that so far as he knew Robinson had not pressed the suit since his resignation, but that the courts had wanted to clear up such points as whether he could be suspended for disciplinary action or whether he had to present specific charges.

Roper to Quit?

DANIEL C. ROPER

CAPITAL HEARS OF RESIGNATION

Of Son-In-Law Hastens
Commerce Chief's Act

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper intends to resign from the cabinet in the near future, possibly soon after the first of the year, the United Press was reliably informed today.

For several months Roper has denied flatly that his resignation was impending. Today he declined to comment on the subject. It was learned, however, that he has told close friends he contemplated resigning at the end of Mr. Roosevelt's first term, but that the President prevailed on him to remain.

The death of Roper's son-in-law, David R. Coker, wealthy seed grower, about two weeks ago, it was said, has made Roper unwilling to reconsider his decision to quit even if asked to do so by Mr. Roosevelt. The personal responsibilities of handling Coker's numerous business enterprises are so great, that Roper believes it imperative that he leave the government service.

BRIBERY TRIAL OF OHIO SHERIFF NEARS ITS CLOSE

ELYRIA, Dec. 15.—(UP)—The bribery trial of William F. Grall, former Lorain county sheriff, entered its final round today with attorneys concluding arguments.
"I took payments from Maxine Barbour," Grall had testified, "but I gave the money all back so she would help me solve a murder case I was working on."
The Barbour woman, whose place near here was run under the name of "Penny Morgan," is being sought under an indictment charging she made payments to the former sheriff during late 1937 and early 1938.

Testimony brought out that these payments were made to William G. Smith, former chief deputy, who then brought them to the sheriff's office.
"There was an agreement," Grall testified, "that Penny would be allowed to operate her place in return for clues that might provide solution of a Lorain murder."
"After I split with Smith, I made up the differences and returned the whole payment to Penny."

BERLIN, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Tens of thousands of German Jews today handed over to the Nazi government a $100,000,000 installment of the $400,000,000 fine levied on them because of the assassination of Ernst Vom Rath, secretary in the German embassy at Paris, by a 17 year old Jew.

It was a gigantic bookkeeping operation, essentially, which gave the German banks one of their busiest days. Shares of the fine were levied on those Jews whose total possessions were more than $2,000. The operation proved principally to be a transfer of huge amounts of Jewish deposits from ordinary banks to the Prussian state bank which was designated to receive today's installment.

There was very little direct transference of money or stocks. Banks generally did the main work by notifying the Central bank that specified sums were to be transferred to its account.

Banking experts said that Jews for several days had been instructed

AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR FINDLAY FATAL TO TWO

FINDLAY, Dec. 15.—(UP)—An automobile collision in which two persons were killed and five injured was investigated today by Dr. H. O. Crosby, Hancock county coroner.

Paul Buckley, 28, of Whitehouse, O., and Mrs. Morrell Hoover, 26, of Rawson, O., died of skull fractures and internal injuries after the collision of two cars at a road intersection eight miles southwest of Findlay late Wednesday night.
Mrs. Buckley and Mrs. Hoover's son, Lawrence, 4, were in Findlay hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spach, 23 and 18, and their two-year-old daughter, Margaret Ann, occupants of the second car, also were injured.

Lawrence Hoover was the most seriously hurt. Both his legs were broken and he had a compound fracture of one arm.
Buckley died in the hospital 30 minutes after the accident. Mrs. Hoover died on the way to the hospital.
Spach, who was driving on a state road, told authorities that he saw the other car, driven by Buckley, on a county road and thought it would stop at the intersection.

COUNTY COURT WILL BE QUIET DURING HOLIDAY SEASON, JUDGE DECIDES

No jury cases will be heard in Common Pleas court during the remainder of December, Judge Meeker Terwilliger announced Thursday that the case of the State of Ohio, ex rel., Evelyn Binkley against James M. Binkley, involving parentage proceedings, scheduled for Monday, Dec. 19, has been vacated. No other cases have been assigned.
Judge Terwilliger said he planned to dispose of motions and demurrers during the remainder of the month in preparation for jury cases after the first of the year.
Grand and petit jurors for the January term will be drawn Saturday.

BLACK LEGION'S CHIEF CARRIES APPEAL HIGHER

LIMA, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Attorneys for Virgil H. Effinger, former Black Legion commander, insisted today that they could carry to the United States supreme court his legal fight against extradition to Michigan, where he is wanted on charges of criminal syndicalism and possession of explosives.

The Ohio supreme court late Wednesday dismissed his appeal from lower court decisions which had refused to grant him a writ of habeas corpus.

Effinger's extradition to Michigan was ordered in 1936 by Governor Martin L. Davey. At that time, he was wanted for questioning in connection with Black Legion alleged terroristic activities at Detroit.

Effinger walked out of the extradition hearing room at Columbus in August, 1936, and did not surrender to authorities in Lima, his home, until Dec. 3, 1937.

A long court fight on his habeas corpus proceedings followed. Both the common pleas and appeals courts refused to supersede the extradition order and the supreme court held that no debatable constitutional question was involved.
Effinger, at liberty under $5,000 bond, could not be reached for comment today. He is represented by Attorneys J. K. Rockey and Clarence Miller.

LEADER OF BUND ON WEST COAST TO LOSE RIGHTS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Immigration authorities undertook today the unusual procedure of revoking the American citizenship granted Herman Max Schwinn, Hamburg-born leader of the German-American Bund.

United States Attorney Benjamin Harrison said the attempt was based on discrepancies of dates for Schwinn's naturalization, approved here six years ago.

Harrison said only a "go-ahead" from the attorney general's office in Washington remained before court proceedings are filed citing Schwinn to show cause why he should not lose his citizenship.

No comment was made on the possibility of a deportation should Schwinn's naturalization be voided. Schwinn said if any discrepancy occurred it was unintentional.
"This would not have arisen if it had not been for my opposition to Jews and Communists," he declared.

Schwinn, a lean-faced man with a small mustache, wore the brown uniform of the "Friends of New Germany" before becoming western director of the bund. He is a close friend of Fritz Kuhn, New York bund chieftain.

Topping was divorced by his first wife, Jayne Shaddock, the actress, on Tuesday. A wealthy society man, he has shown marked attention to Miss Baker for some time.

James I. Smith, Jr., S. Court street manager of the Esmeralda Canning Co., is the new president of the Ohio Cannery association, taking a position once filled by his late father. Mr. Smith was elected Wednesday at the closing session of the association at its convention held in Columbus. He served during the last year as vice president.

R. C. Sharp, of Celina, was chosen vice president and Roy Irons, of Clyde, was named again as secretary.

Four new directors were chosen, including E. C. Thatcher, DeGraff, C. T. Vandervort, Wilmington; Harry Vanderhorst, St. Mary's, and F. L. Dutton, Columbus. Other members of the board are N. C. Buckles, Bradford; George S. Wenger, Sandusky, and Arthur Hamilton, Lebanon.

The convention heard addresses by several leaders in the canning business in which problems facing the industry were discussed.

Howard A. Orr, of the Winori Canning Co., is a past president of the Ohio Cannery association and the National Cannery association.

BALDWIN JOINS EDEN'S SIDE FOR FIRMER POLICY

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Earl Baldwin, regarded as the most influential conservative figure in Great Britain, is backing Anthony Eden's demand for a firmer foreign policy, it was understood today.

Baldwin was Neville Chamberlain's predecessor as prime minister. It was he who handled the abdication crisis, he who caused a world sensation when, as national leader, he announced that Great Britain's frontier henceforth was the German Rhine, not the English channel.

It was Baldwin who caused the German Nazi boycott of a banquet only Tuesday night at which Chamberlain criticized German newspapers for "heaping vituperation" on him—"the most respected of our statesmen."

Now, it was understood, Baldwin is quietly coaching Eden in the demand that the British government firm up its policy toward the dictator nations.

FOURTH INFANT BORN TO COUPLE IN CITY HOSPITAL

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wolfe, Circleville Route 1, announce the birth of a son, Thursday, in Berger hospital.

The new arrival is the fourth child born to the couple in Circleville's hospital. The other children are Lois Ann, 7; Phillip, 4, and Mary Jo, 15 months.

Hospital attendants say the four children do not establish a record in the hospital as there are other parents who have had four children born in the institution. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. William Deffenbaugh, Saltercreek township, who have four daughters, all born in the hospital.

Berger hospital was eight years old last July.

Ohioan Sees Wife Drown As Car Skids Into Lake

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—(UP)—While coast guards searched for the body of his wife, Walter Keleher, 41, told today how their car plunged into Lake Erie after skidding off Lake Shore boulevard in Gordon Park here.

Still dazed from the shock of seeing his wife swept out into the lake by eight-foot waves, his legs bruised and blue where the waves dashed him against rocks, Keleher told of the accident.

"We were going to a party at St. Patrick's Catholic church," he said. "I couldn't have been going more than about 25 miles an hour."

"As I passed East Boulevard there were about 10 cars coming toward me and I saw the first one splash through some water where the waves were breaking over the boulevard. I put on my brakes and started to skid."

"I struck the first car — a fender I think, and the impact sent me skidding the other way. We struck the curb and went off over the side, down onto the rocks."

"As the car tilted to one side the right door came open and my wife was flung into the water. Then the car was resting on its right side and I had to climb out through the window.

"A wave struck me and knocked me against the rocks. Then the back-wash started carrying me out into the lake. The waves carried me in and out three or four times."

"I can't remember much after that, except I vaguely remember some men trying to get us out and thinking that they would be able to save us."

His daughters, Lucille, 13, and Sally, 10, sat in a corner weeping as the father talked.

After a search of several hours, police, firemen and coast guards gave up looking for Mrs. Keleher's body last night. Coast guards began the search again today.

The accident was blamed on ice which had formed beneath the water from spray of the waves that were breaking over the boulevard. After the accident traffic was cut off while the section was salted and cindered.

OHIO GRANGERS SEEK TO BOOST PRODUCE PRICES

AKRON, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Delegates to the Ohio State grange convention today were to act on resolutions at the closing session of their 66th annual meeting.

A resolutions committee and a dozen sub-committees have been weeding out less important resolutions during the first three days of the convention. Resolutions offered covered such subjects as crop control, taxation, soil conservation, highways, cooperatives and insurance.

Louis J. Taber, master of the national grange, told members at a banquet last night that "America's number one problem is falling farm prices and continued unemployment."

"However, I see a bright ray of hope in the fact that America's farmers no longer are looking for miracles to bring immediate relief," Taber said. "Everywhere we find them getting behind long-term programs of improvement."

COLUMBUS, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Failure of State Finance Director M. Ray Allison to certify the state's half of old age pension funds today held up mailing of December checks to 112,000 Ohio pensioners.

Allison refused to comment when asked why the state had not certified funds to the state auditor's office. Certification for the federal share of December funds has been received from the Social Security board.

Allison merely said: "I am not in the pension business today."

There was some speculation whether the state could meet its pension obligation for the month in view of depleted year-end treasury balances. Allison recently declared the state might have to "scratch" to find the money.

Mason Hayhurst, office manager of the auditing division, said he would try to see Allison late today for a certification. For the first time in three months, the pensioners can receive their check on schedule if the state allocates its share of funds. Hayhurst said all checks would reach pensioners by Christmas if the certification comes through now.

HEAVY SEA KEEPS 18 SHIPWRECKED MEN IN DANGER

JUNEAU, Alaska, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Heavy winter seas keep 18 shipwrecked seamen isolated for the fourth day on the barren shores of Cape Fairweather.

Two navy planes and a private craft dropped emergency rations to the men, survivors of a crew of 20 aboard the famous old trading ship, the Patterson. It went ashore Monday.

The coast guard cutter Haida was unable to take the men off the beach because of the danger in sending a small boat through the surf.

Sheldon Simmons, pilot of the private plane, said he had dropped maps to the men showing them the route to reach Lituya Bay, 25 miles to the South.
Simmons said that if the men decide to go overland the cutter or naval seaplanes could pick them up.
